FRIENDS PLANNING INSANITY DEFENSE FOR BOOTLEG KING

Remus Will Conduct Own
Case—Cheered By Daughter

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—George Remus, former "Bootleg King," stepped to the bar of police court this morning, and in a firm voice entered a plea of "not guilty," to slaying his wife, Mrs. Imogene Remus, when he was called for preliminary hearing in Municipal Court this morning.

The proceedings were very brief.

Remus' case was the first one called on the docket.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked Judge William D. Alexander.

Remus, cool and reserved, without a show of emotion, answered:

"Not guilty, your honor."

"Are you ready for trial?" he was asked.

"I waive examination, your honor," he answered.

A crowd of 300 persons filled the courtroom and corridors, but Remus' daughter Romola did not accompany him to the courtroom.

Despite his declaration that he is "perfectly sane" and that he would not plead insanity, the defense of Remus will be an insanity plea, according to counsel.

Remus was shot as Remus snatched her from a taxi-cab in Eden Park here yesterday morning, as she was enroute to the Court house to press her divorce suit against the former bootlegger, who is rated a millionaire.

Preparations were complete here early today for a preliminary hearing of Remus on a charge of first degree murder, at which he was expected to enter a plea of not guilty and be ordered held without bail until the new grand jury, starting Monday, can investigate the case.

Anticipating the insanity plea, County Prosecutor C. P. Taft last night had Remus examined by Dr. W. C. Kendig, Hamilton County alienist. The findings of the alienist have not been made public.

Numerous friends of Remus gathered at the Big Four station here last night, and met his daughter, by a former marriage, Miss Romola Remus, 22, who came from Chicago, the former home of the Remus family, to be with her father.

"I've come to help daddy, because he needs me now," she declared.

Although Remus insists that he is "perfectly sane," and that he will reject all offers of counsel, and defend himself, his friends predicted that competent counsel would be retained for him, and that temporary insanity would be offered as his chief defense.

Telegrams from W. W. (Ropes) O'Brien, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, and from Hugh J. Daly, former U. S. district attorney in Chicago, were said to have been received last night by Remus, proffering their services in his defense, but he told reporters he could not accept these offers.

Fashionably attired, and displaying but little emotion, Miss Remus was taken immediately to her father's cell on her arrival.

"I am here to cheer daddy up," she said. "When I received word that he was in trouble, I came by the first train. I can't say anything about the affairs leading up to it, and I don't know anything about daddy's mental condition, all I know is he needs me."

When Remus' cell door was opened, he rushed out into the visitor's corridor, and threw his arms around his daughter, crying "Romola, my baby!"

The two remained locked in a tight embrace for several minutes, and hardened jailers turned away. Remus then sought to reassure his daughter, as she whispered encouragement to him, and told him she would "stay with him to the end."

Miss Remus later went to the home of friends of Remus here to spend the night.

"The loyalty of my baby overwhelms me," Remus said, after the girl had left the jail. "I feel more like facing a jury now. I did my duty by ridding society of a parasite. I am not afraid of the verdict of any twelve honest men. The unwritten law will prevail."

LEADER OF INDIANS IN MEXICAN REVOLT SLAIN BY FEDERAL

Believe Gomez May Be Alive—Federal Troops Mass

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 7.—Alfonso De La Huerta, brother of the former provisional president of Mexico, and two aides, Generals Aguirre and Modine, were shot and killed by federal troops when surprised at the head of a small band of Yaqui Indians in the hills south of Nogales, Sonora, according to an unconfirmed report received here today.

"I had figured that I would never be able to get Dodge with her that I might kill them both. I felt too, in a way, that Franklin Dodge was just a man. He was a prohibition agent, at that. She had fallen in love with him."

"He could not resist her wiles any more than I had been able to resist her years before, when she took me from the one fine woman I've known in my life—my first wife."

"I determined to kill her, and made sure of that at least. I waited, in my car. She came along, out of the Alms Hotel with her daughter, Ruth."

"My car ran her car to the curb and she got out. I followed her and took her by the wrist."

"When I took her wrist I guess my face showed the murder that was in my heart. She turned that fawning, hypocritical face of hers up to me and said:

"'Aw, don't hurt me, daddy,—you know I love you.'"

"I thought of her coming to see me in the penitentiary at Atlanta—and of Dodge being at a hotel in this city. I thought of her wheedling my last securities, money, bonds out of me, on the plea that she was working to obtain my release and was carrying on the business while I was inside. I thought of her taking those very securities to lavish attentions on Dodge."

"I turned sick, actually and physically nauseated by her words."

"'Aw, don't hurt me, daddy,—you know I love you.'"

"The words will live in my mind as long as I draw breath. The living hell—"

For a moment Remus stopped. Words failed him. His hate left him dumb and he stopped pacing his cell to face his slayer.

Then with an obvious effort he put his thoughts in order and resumed.

"I looked her in the eye. My actions were as cool as they will ever be in my life. I knew exactly what I was doing. I pulled her close to me. I held her wrist in my left hand. Then I took the pistol from my coat pocket."

"You hypocritical, parasite mass of clay! I told her, 'you've been looking for it—take it.'"

"Then I gave it to her—pulled her face bore a look more of amazement than of pain or fear. She seemed unable to realize that she could no longer control my every word or deed."

"She slumped down, and then it was she began to scream."

"Her daughter, Ruth, the daughter I had adopted and given the same luxuries that I gave my own daughter Romola, came up, and began tugging my coat. I pushed her away when her mother got up and started to run away. I started after her, afraid, for a moment that I might not have done a thorough job. But she slumped down again and clasped her hands to her abdomen."

"Then I knew that I had not failed. An abdominal wound you know is fatal. I studied surgery in my young days and I know that."

"For the first time in eight years I'm having peace of mind," Remus said. "I can think back and sort of put together the Chinese puzzle that has been my life."

"The deceased was a director of the Federal Reserve Bank at Cleveland, the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, and several other large local corporations. He was prominent in civic activities and was chiefly responsible for the construction of the $2,000,000 Henry Stambaugh Memorial auditorium here last year."

Last winter Mr. Stambaugh suffered a nervous breakdown and has been in ill health since that time. He and his family had planned to go to New York last night, and were making final preparations at "Chalet," the Stambaugh home in Trumbull County, north of here, when the suicide occurred.

Mrs. Stambaugh and her son, John, Jr., heard the shot and found the body in a tump of shrubbery on the lawn. The bullet had been fired into the right temple, passing completely through the head.

Reports were also received that attempts of federal troops to capture General Arnulfo Gomez, revolutionary leader, near Vera Cruz, were unsuccessful.

ON FIRING LINE

HERB PENNOCK

Herb Pennock, injured in batting practice before the start of the World Series, was able to pitch for the New York Yankees Friday. He was opposed by the bespectacled hurler, Lee Meadows, for the Pirates.

The idea of four straight is scored by the Pirates. They are due to win, and they think they will win today when the two clubs resume hostilities in the Yankee stadium where upwards of 60,000 are expected to view the struggle.

"Don't count us out," said Manager Donie Bush. "We've been in tight spots before. I've got a game ball club with plenty of power, and I'm banking on them to show it."

The Pirates were a grim, determined aggregation when their special pulled into New York this morning. They realized their backs are to the wall, that they've got to win now or never. They had no excuses to offer over yesterday's convincing defeat. They were out-hit, out-pitched and out-fielded but not out-gamed. Gameiness did not enter the issue as the pitchers, Vic Aldridge and Mike Cuyler, tossed the game away. They lost the first battle by errors at crucial stages. But so they have hit almost as heavily, if not as opportunely as the Yanks, having made sixteen hits in two games as compared with seventeen registered by the New York club.

Bush was undecided whether to start one of his spectacular pitchers Lee Meadows or Carmen Hill, on the mound or trust the assignment to John Miljus. Meadows and Hill are "crazy veterans, a trifle old, but very dependable, while Miljus showed in his relief pitching Wednesday that he knew how to peg them to the Yanks. He stopped them cold, allowing but one hit in four innings."

Manager Huggins of the Yanks will pitch either Herb Pennock, his star southpaw, or Wilcy Moore. Pennock's injured knee is almost well and he is eager to get into the series.

What effect, if any, a change in scenery will have on the Pirates remains to be seen. They did not have united whole-hearted support in Pittsburgh, especially yesterday, when the fans booed Bush for selecting Earl Smith as pinch hitter instead of using Kiki Cuyler. "We want Cuyler," was the cry of thousands of Pittsburgh fans who cannot forget that it was Kiki's heavy hitting that won the World Series for Pittsburgh in 1925. Bush and Cuyler have not been friendly

Levine has just arrived here from Vienna. He expects to sail from England on the Leviathan next Tuesday.

"I do not fear any legal action at any time, despite the report from Washington that the government will try to collect half a million dollars alleged due in taxes upon war contracts," said the flyer.

"We have a better claim against the government than the government has against us. For every nickel the government says I owe I have a valid claim for a dollar. The government failed to live up to its contract with me. It did not and could not deliver several consignments due to me."

Levine hastily concluded his business engagements in Berlin and said good-bye to persons with whom he became acquainted after his arrival in the Columbia four months ago.

"I am going to return to the States according to my arranged plan," continued Levine. "I have been promised a reservation upon the Leviathan and I expect to sail upon that liner from England next Tuesday. I have arranged passage to fly to Dortmund in a Lufthansa plane this afternoon. From Dortmund I shall motor to Cologne and intend to fly from Cologne to London tomorrow."

"I do not expect any public reception when I reach New York. I guess it is too late for any reception now."

Levine will take back with him a blue print design for a 50-passenger, seven-motored airplane for over-seas flights beginning next summer.

The new plane, which will be powered with motors of 800 horse power, will have a wing spread of 150 feet and a flying radius of 2,500 miles.

Compartment for passengers will be built in the wings. The plane was designed by a French engineer. Provision is made for repair of motors while the plane is in flight.

Levine said he would have the machine built during the winter at a cost of $500,000 so that he could undertake the first trans-Atlantic flight early in the summer.

YANKEES HOPING TO WIN FOUR STRAIGHT FROM PIRATE CREW

"Don't Count Us Out,"
Says Bush—May Use
Meadows

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—

"Four straight" was the battle cry of the New York Yankees as they returned home today from Pittsburgh where they rode roughshod over the Pirates in the two opening games of the World Series, winning the first 5 to 4 and the second 6 to 2. This is a decidedly ambitious program for no club has made it a clean sweep in the annual baseball classic since the Boston Braves won four consecutive games from the Philadelphia Athletics in 1914.

The idea of four straight is scored by the Pirates. They are due to win, and they think they will win today when the two clubs resume hostilities in the Yankee stadium where upwards of 60,000 are expected to view the struggle.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The third game of the World's Series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, may be summarized in one word: "Herb Pennock."

Evidently an injury to his knee on the eve of the opening game made a wonderful pitcher of the Yankee hurler, for he let the Pirates down with three hits and one run, as the American League champions rang up their third straight victory by the lopsided score of 8 to 1.

Pennock hurled perfect baseball for the first seven innings showing not a sign of a hit and not a Pirate reached first base. The first twenty-two batters to face him went out in order.

Pie Traynor spoiled a possible no-hit game when he singled in the eighth with one out. Barnhart followed with a triple, that scored Traynor with Pittsburgh's lone run.

By his marvelous pitching exhibition, Pennock maintained his record of never having lost a world's series contest. Meadows, starting Pirate pitcher, hurled equally well for six innings after being scored upon twice in the first, but weakened in the seventh and the Yankees bunched four hits for six runs.

During this hectic inning, Babe Ruth knocked the first home run of the series with two on base. The Yankees obtained nine hits and fielded in errorless fashion. The Pirates made one misplay in the field, a wild throw by Traynor.

Lou Gehrig was the Yankee batting star. He hit a triple, that scored two runners in the first inning, and later collected a double and base on balls, fanning his last time at bat.

The Pirates are now three down to New York, to borrow a golfing phrase, and must win four straight games to cope the series.

PITTSBURGH—L. Waner out, Lazzeri to Gehrig. Dugan raced in on Rhyne's mean ball, picked the ball up with one hand and nipped the batter at first on a close play. P. Waner grounded out, Lazzeri to Gehrig. No runs, no hits, no errors.

UNPARDONABLE SIN IS BLASPHEMY SAYS EVANGELIST HERE

They shall eat the fruit of their own doing, and be filled with their own devices.

"The New Testament—in John's Gospel, the twelfth chapter we are confronted with these words: 'They could not believe.' Many other passages of the New Testament were cited by the speaker as teaching that there was a state of life beyond the pardoning point, that God would not forgive in this world or in the world to come.

"The meaning of this is that they are beyond feeling after God or have any desire to be converted. 'Therefore they could not believe.' John 12:39. The evangelist emphasized the word 'could not' and then said, 'As long as a man has the power to repent and the disposition to do it, there is no sin that will put him beyond the pale of God's forgiveness.'

"Dr. Biederwolf declared the manner in which a person enters the unpardonable state and quoted this poetry—

'There is a line by us unseen
By which each path is crossed
Beyond which God himself hath sworn
That he who goes is lost.

"Listen to the testimony of nature. It is a law of nature that if a man will not do a thing the time is bound to come when he cannot do it. You go home and tie your arm to your side and simply leave that rope there long enough refusing to use that organ for the purpose God gave it to you and the time will come when you will have lost forever the capacity to lift that arm again. So with other parts of the body. So with the soul function," he said.

"Listen to the testimony of experience and observation." The speaker noted out of his long experience many of those who had come to the place that 'They could not believe' who had lost their sense of desire, for God and repentance and salvation. Then continuing—

"I tremble as I think of giving the invitation tonight. I do not want ever to think that anyone has committed this awful crime against the Holy Ghost under my preaching. So much rather would that you go home tonight without an invitation than to say that fatal 'No' to God tonight; but as ambassador of God, standing in Christ's stead, tonight, I must give you this opportunity. Say 'Yes to God.'

The Trinity Sunday School Orchestra gave a prelude of music under the leadership of Miss Marjorie Street. The Rev. A. J. Furstenberger led in the opening prayer, and the Rev. L. A. Washburn in the closing prayer. A number was given by a group of seven men, part of a double quartet, Roy Spahr, Carl Ervin, Glen Reed, Bayless Thompson, Thomas McClelland, Herman Eavey, Harry Seifert. The Rev. Homer Grimes sang a beautiful solo "Nobody Cares Somebody Cares."

Herman Eavey announced, the "free will" offering for Dr. Biederwolf which will be taken Sunday. Three services were announced for Sunday, at 10:45 a. m. for everybody. It was stated in connection with this service that provision would be made to take care of all who wanted to attend the service to hear Dr. Biederwolf, an invitation that if the first M. E. overflows, provision would be made not to disappoint any one, but to have him speak to the overflow in a nearby auditorium. Friday night—"Off on the Right Foot." Saturday short meeting at 7:30 at church, street meeting afterwards.

"THE GRANDMOTHERS."

By Glenway Wescott.

Every year Harper's magazine offers a prize to the novel which best presents a picture of American life and ideals. This year the prize has been awarded to Mr. Glenway Wescott's book "The Grandmothers." The book has for a subtitle "A Family Portrait." It is really a series of pictures of the family of Alwyn Tower, a young American writer, born in Wisconsin of pioneer stock.

When the story opens he is sitting at a cafe-table in a watering place in the Alps. He begins to think of the early days of America, particularly of Wisconsin and his family. And a sudden feeling of kinship with them sweeps over him. He does not admire all their characteristics but he feels that he is their son—that he understands them. And he makes us understand them.

His grandmother used to ask for the photograph album and when it was brought to her point out to the boy his various relations, telling him stories about their lives, little incidents which to the child fixed them in his mind as living people with loves and hates, struggles and hardships; sometimes brave and unselfish, sometimes just the opposite. Now through Alwyn's eyes we see them as though he were slowly turning the pages

WILL GRADE HONEY

Ohio beekeepers interested in knowing what grade of extracted honey they produce may find out now through the agricultural college extension service at the Ohio State University.

One of the new United States graders has been bought for the university, and will be available for grading Ohio beekeepers' samples free of charge, announces Virgil N. Argo, extension specialist in beekeeping at Columbus. Samples for testing should be eight ounces or more.

Beekeepers who visited the Ohio State Fair this year saw a standard honey grader operated by a representative of the agriculture division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This grader which determines the exact color of the honey, has been devised and adopted by the federal department after study and approval of beekeeping and marketing specialists.

"As soon as the standard honey grades become familiar to all beekeepers," explains Mr. Argo, "there will be a more general appreciation of fine quality in honey production, and some of the few beekeepers who are now putting inferior honey on the market will make a greater effort to improve the appearance of their wares."

"A uniform standard of quality can do more in holding the price of honey where it should be than almost anything else. The reason the western fruit growers, for example, can afford to put their apples on the eastern market is because they will tolerate but one standard of quality among members of their cooperative associations, and the commission men who buy from the unorganized growers will accept fruit of but one standard, because they know that the organized growers are putting no inferior material on the market."

OCEAN HOP CASUALTY

Jake Moellendick used to be a laborer in the Kansas oil fields. One day he took a ride in an old army airplane, in order to get to a field where a well was about to be brought in.

Jake liked the plane and the aviator so well that he bought the one and hired the other. He set his aviator up in the airplane manufacturing business in Wichita. That was the beginning of the plane business in Wichita, where there are now five airplane factories.

Jake built the Dallas Spirit that did the fatal tail-spin into the Pacific while it was searching for the lost Dole flyers. After that tail-spin Jake was taken to a sanitarium, a nervous wreck. He had lost his two friends, his plane, and months of hard work. Jake Moellendick is one of the casualties of the long-distance flights.

COST OF PROGRESS

Charles Lindbergh very aptly points out that flying the mail was more dangerous, hour for hour in the air, when it was begun, than flying across the ocean is now.

That's a valuable thought. Do you remember how air mail pilots were killed, one after another, when the air mail was new? And that wasn't so long ago, was it?

There was an insistent public demand then that the air mail project be given over altogether. Who would suggest now that the air mail service be discontinued?

Doubtless, there were a good many needless deaths in the early history of the air mail. That is to say, men were killed because they were flying old crates that were left over from the war. And they were flying them over dangerous routes that were not properly marked.

But that's the way things start. If the postoffice hadn't been willing to start with left-over army planes, the air mail never would have been started. If the postoffice had waited until the routes were all marked and the landing fields all laid out, we'd have had no air mail for another fifty years. Remember, it's the air mail that has been the chief incentive to the laying out and dedication of proper landing fields.

VALUE RECOGNIZED

A. A. Anderson, secretary of the Pacific Coast Building Loan association, in an address at the Pacific States savings and loan conference, recommends newspaper advertising as the most effective and economical means of reaching the public. Further, he urged that the building-loan associations throughout the United States should have a fund of at least $1,000,000 for such a campaign.

As Mr. Anderson knows, it has been fully demonstrated that the newspaper stands by itself as a carrier of messages to the greatest possible number of people. It is the only medium that is sure to reach the citizens of a community and be read. This fact is being more fully appreciated every day.

The smaller city dailies and country weeklies are the great medium for reaching the masses of the people who represent the majority of the reading and buying power of the nation.

BASEBALL AT NIGHT

Electricity is now scheduled to bring professional baseball at night. It has already fooled the hens and caused them to lay eggs overtime, raised plants where formerly only darkness prevailed, has furnished food for trout farms by causing bugs to fly low to the water, freezes ice, curls milady's hair and does so many other unheard-of things, that lighting a baseball diamond at night will seem tame in comparison.

The Way of the World

FAT OR LEAN

Good-natured, fat men are likely to be successful in business. They are at the head of big business organizations. Lean, hungry-looking men are the successful political and military leaders of the world. So say those who diagnose character from appearance. They forget that Napoleon was a little, plump man. No young man can safely choose his line of work in accordance with his physical characteristics.

Young men, figuring on success in life, sometimes take the closest, easiest, most convenient job. To go into a line you do not enjoy, that you are not interested in, just because it is convenient, is dead waste. Determine the thing you are most interested in and go after that, whatever the cost and the hardship.

THE GARY RULES

The late Judge Gary was past fifty years old when he went to New York to become head of the company which preceded the U. S. Steel corporation. For nearly 30 years after that he lived an active business life and worked hard. How did he do it? E. J. Clapp calls our attention to the fourteen rules for good health given out by Gary two years ago. They are worth noting:

1. Exercise in the open air, but do it moderately.
2. Breathe deeply of pure air as much as possible.
3. Leave alcoholic stimulants alone. Take tea and coffee if you happen to like them.
4. Drink pure water.
5. Eat little starch, fat or sweets, eat plenty of green vegetables, containing mineral salts, eat whole wheat bread, eat fresh fruit, and drink milk if it agrees with you.
6. Follow regular habits.
7. Get plenty of sleep.
8. Work hard, mentally and physically, but not too long.
9. Lead a good, clean life.
10. Keep an even temper and avoid excitement.
11. Never get angry or indulge in controversy.
12. Obey the Golden Rule.
13. Eat only to satisfy the hunger, not to please the palate.

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

By
Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Tradition and precedent are as nothing to Mrs. Word Leigh, an extraordinary young woman living hereabouts. Not only for purposes of a good story, but in actuality, Mrs. Leigh is beautiful—and she has a mind of her own. Sometime ago, she started residents of the small Westchester town in which she lives, by garbing her horse "Lady" in specially made trousers, in order to protect the animal from flies. But it is a rare horse who will submit so much an indignity and Lady soon did away with the unmaidenly garments.

At present Mrs. Leigh declares that she is hot on the trail of the secret of "perfect living." To inaugurate her system, she proposes to live in a house which will be almost entirely made of glass. The house, in fact, is nearing completion and Mrs. Leigh is to move in shortly. The building was constructed by a company which also makes regulation greenhouses; in truth, the new residence will look greatly like a greenhouse. But wings jutting out to the east, one story, it is to have three north and south. Thus will the lady bask always in sunshine, which she believes along with a great many others, is an absolute necessity to proper health. And it is rumored that the local police force have quieted down after Mrs. Leigh denied the rumor that her glass house would not have shades.

There is, on Broadway, an elaborate motion picture, dedicated to the dead heroes of a certain branch of the army in the late war. This same picture was made with the help of a number of enlisted men in the national army, all of whom gave their services to the picture company without cost. When the first showing of the completed film was announced in a nearby town, the thirty-dollar-a-month army men were not employed when they received invitations (at five dollars each) to the film which they had risked their necks in making.

Recently Captain Denman, a war hero, and a representative of the Bristol-Jupiter company, arrived in New York, to await the landing of the transatlantic planes, using the Bristol-Jupiter motor. A distinguished carrier as an aviator in the World War, he was nothing for, he was informed that tickets could be purchased at 50 cents in advance of box office prices, when he expressed a desire to see the picture, which was dedicated to mer like himself.

At this time, Park avenue is a virtual nightmare. The operations, which are to do away with the parkway in the center of the avenue, are in full blast. Between Forty-fifth and Fifty-sixth street, the street is entirely cut off for two blocks here, on either side of the avenue, only steel girders cover the tracks of the underground railroad. In order to let traffic through, from Forty-fifth to Forty-sixth, it has been necessary to build a roadway directly through a new building which is under construction. Cars travel northward on this. On Vanderbilt avenue, parallel to this synthetic highway, traffic proceeds only in a southerly direction. Because of this confusion, I paid a taxi bill of 50 cents. In going from Lexington and Forty-second to Park and Forty-sixth. A distance of five short blocks, the journey took me 25 minutes.

HIGH PRICES AND VANITY

What an astounding range and amount of business might go to smash if human vanity were eliminated!

Even articles which fill a sensible need sometimes make their chief appeal through the vanity of those expected to buy. The highest-priced books are not necessarily the ones that people would profit most by reading, but are more likely to be merely limited editions, each volume numbered, for the purpose of making the buyer feel importantly exclusive.

Nine women out of ten who wear much costly jewelry insist they like precious gems for their beauty. Yet those who wear the most jewelry are often the ones least capable of appreciating beauty.

If beauty were the major reason for jewelry, then costly emeralds, sapphires and rubies might all be replaced by manufactured stones which cost only a comparative trifle, but equal in coloring those from the mine.

"Ah," I heard a woman retort to this, "but I don't like anything artificial. I want my things to be genuine."

If that policy were generally heeded, a long list of articles in acceptable everyday use, including perfumes, would come under the ban. A woman does not object to anointing herself with violet toilet water, and yet the violet odor comes not from flowers picked in bosky dells but from unsavory chemicals in a factory.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

How to Develop a Charming Voice

I believe there is almost as great a variety of voices as of faces. You know that when a close friend calls you on the telephone almost always you will recognize her voice instantly. There are low, sonorous voices, high pitched, bell-like voices, squeaky voices, rasping voices—all speaking the same language, but speaking it, oh, so differently!

Have you ever thought, when you heard a woman speak, "I would go mad if I had to listen to that voice every day?" Quite likely the possessor of the voice that irritates you so does not realize that the sounds coming from her mouth vary greatly from those you utter.

Very few women, unless they are in a profession such as singing, the stage or public speaking, really know how to use their voices. Occasionally someone is born with such ear for sound and such natural control of the vocal organs that the speaking voice is charming without effort, but this is just about as frequent as the natural singing voice that has had no training. It is a gift of the gods, but even that can be improved with cultivation.

The first essential in cultivating a beautiful speaking voice is to breathe properly. Breathe deeply from the diaphragm, not from the chest or the stomach. You can tell by placing the tips of your fingers touching just below your ribs. Then if you feel the steady rise and fall with your breathing you are doing it in the right way. Practice breathing from your diaphragm five minutes a day lying down, and five standing by an open window. Then try to remember the sensation, and gradually you will get the habit of correct breathing, and it will not feel natural to do any other way.

To speak beautiful, you must have a relaxed, open throat. Think of a yawn, close your eyes and feel the relaxing of all the muscles. Then speak instead of yawning. Keep your lower jaw relaxed, your tongue flat and you will produce a good tone.

To free the inner cavities and match them act as sounding boards, do this exercise: Begin a humming, "m-m-m" with your lips closed, and let it flood your face until it simply has to come out. Then open your mouth, changing the humming to "ah." Repeat over and over the "m-ah-m-ah."

If you do all these things I have told you, then you will at least have a little start toward producing clear, resonant, attractive sounds when you speak. Another requisite of perfect speech is good enunciation. Enunciate your words clearly, sounding the last consonant. Then develop a pleasing rhythm and intonation. Do not try to keep your voice low or at any other certain pitch all the time, or you are likely to make it monotonous. Natural speech rises or falls, according to what it expresses. Allow yours to follow this natural trend. Avoid uneven jerks, uncalculated "oh's," "ah's," "wells," and "ands," or any semblance of stammering.

The perfect attribute to a charming voice is an attractive, well-shaped and nicely made-up mouth. In my next talk I shall take up lip make-up. Although I know I have told you something of this art in my other talks, it is really such an important high point in the whole ensemble of beauty, and there is so much to be said about it, that I have no pricks of conscience in giving another day of it.

NO CAT IN SPIKE OF HIS WHISKERS

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

WHISKERS

"G-r-r! A Two-Legs!" growled the whiskered face, and scowled at Peter. "So 'tis you who have scared Mrs. Rabbit away from the hole. Well, sir, you didn't count on me! She is a timid little creature, afraid of her shadow, but I am brave and bold, and I'll bite a piece out of your leg, that I will!"

"I'll teach you to drive my neighbors away from their very doorsteps! Not that I care much for Mrs. Rabbit, but she is a pleasant, harmless little body, dwelling in the Mediterranean sea and the coast placed it beyond the reach of all but the Very Rich. It thus had prestige value. Chemists found a way to obtain an equally beautiful, though cheap purple from coal tar purple think no less of themselves because the color is artificial."

Most clothing, furniture, garments and automobiles, though artificial, are well thought of because everybody knows that they are better than anything that can be taken in its natural condition and made to answer the same purposes. The snobbish objection to the artificial is not that it isn't real but that it isn't sufficiently expensive.

A certain type of person prefers that which is most expensive as a means of showing off—to prove that they can afford to have what their neighbors cannot have.

—I fool them every time. But they do their best to make life unpleasant for me.

"Never guessed I'd have a chance to hunt a Human, but here it is, and I'd be as stupid as an Owl not to take it!"

"Good gracious, Cat! What the world are you?"

Household Hints

MENU HINT

Leftover meat may be deviled and made decidedly appetizing. Do you remember in Dickens' "David Copperfield," how David invites the Micawbers and "Tommy Traddles to dinner and the mutton isn't being done, it was "deviled" under Mr. Micawber's direction? And how good it tasted! Much the same kind of thing is done in the recipe following: Deviled Meat Lyonnaise Potatoes Combination Salad Fresh Apple Pie Tea

Today's Recipes

Deviled Meat—Make a batter of a tablespoon of English mustard three of flour, two beaten eggs salt, cayenne, a teaspoonful of olive oil and a scant tablespoonful of vinegar. Cut any kind of cold meat in slices, soak it in this batter and fry a golden brown in hot shortening. Pour what remains into a cupful of hot milk or broth, beat in a tablespoon of butter, heat through and pour over the meat.

Lyonnaise Potatoes—Fry one medium sized onion sliced thin in two or three tablespoons of fat until a light brown. Add two cups sliced (or diced) cooked potatoes, a dash of salt and one of pepper. Cover pan and cook slowly until browned (10 to 15 minutes). Vinegar, one-half to one cup, may be added just before the cooking is finished, if desired.

Suggestions

Child's Quilt

An attractive covering for a quilt for a child's bed is composed of pages cut from three or four linen fast-color story books, alternating the squares with blocks of plain white or cream-colored linen. It will always be fascinating to the youngster who owns it.

Preparedness

You need not wait until the last minute to mix up the dough for hot biscuits. Mix them in the morning and keep them in an ice box until ready to bake.

is the matter with you, anyhow?"

Being spoken to so rudely by a perfect stranger to whom he'd done no harm, didn't at all please Peter.

"What's all this talk about hating the humans? You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

"Don't they feed you and house you and give you a warm seat by the fire?" demanded he.

The words were scarcely out of Peter's mouth when with a leap and a bound the creature was on top of the leg, shaking its whiskers in the boy's very face.

"Stuff and nonsense! Set by the fire, indeed! If I'd hang around indoors when I'm out in the woods, Cat! Who's a Cat? Pooh! No fun in chasing you! You're too stupid."

Dare say you wouldn't even run. I'd only waste my time trying to start something! Look again. Two-Legs! Did you ever know a Cat to have teeth or a tail like mine?"

The creature whirled around a tail hit Peter on the arm. Then back it switched again, and now the teeth were within an inch of the boy's nose. Peter stepped back in alarm.

"Teeth!" exclaimed he. "Why, you must have fifty! And, good gracious, Aunt Jimima! You haven't a bit of fur on the end of your tail. You're not a Cat, that's a fact, though you have whiskers like him. But who in the world are you?"

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder certainly is in considerable disfavor with his fellow officers of Uncle Sam's sea establishment, said recently about the navy, but the feeling against him is nothing to compare with the army's against Col. "Billy" Mitchell, at the time of the latter's aviation outbreak—and even yet, for that matter, though some of the edge was taken off from it, in the colonel's case, by the satisfaction his outraged associates got out of bouncing him from the service.

Magruder found fault with the navy, to be sure, but his way upward from commission to commission, Mitchell rose from the ranks, in the army. Theoretically army and navy officers draw no distinction between the original West Point or Annapolis product and the former enlisted man who has earned his shoulder straps. Probably they don't intend to, but practically the former's line of us, while the latter, at best, is no "old college chum" anyway.

Another very important difference between Magruder and Mitchell—Magruder got into the navy through the professional's entrance, Annapolis—and his way upward from commission to commission, Mitchell rose from the ranks, in the army.

Magruder, too, can be called on—in fact, he has been, informally, and undoubtedly will be given an opportunity later—to prove his charges, and if he can't do it, he'll have to back water.

Admiral Sims played himself in a similar position a good many years ago. He made all kinds of fun of American naval marksmanship, Col. Roosevelt, who was at the helm then, promptly summoned him to improve it, and Sims, given the necessary authority, did improve it.

There's something tangible about complaints like Sims and Magruder's. They can be tested if they don't stand the test, the navy chiefs, of course. If they do, it has, even against the grain, to admit it.

Moreover, Magruder and Sims are navy men, criticizing the navy, on which they're experts, and doing it in parliament language.

Mitchell, on the other hand, an army officer, was especially set on his strictures on the ocean fighting force, and he used such expressions as "criminal" which were interpreted as not only in-jurious but insulting.

The army personnel were sorer about it than the navy's, as an affront put, by one of their own number, on the sister service.

And Mitchell's claims—even a bystander can see it—can't be tried out with certainty.

Under peace conditions, with a plane, he can sink unresisting, anchored ships, but nobody knows what he could do against a vessel which put up a fight, and a real experiment's impossible. It would be sure to kill somebody which wouldn't do—deliberately in mere maneuvers. Military folks hold overwhelmingly that the ship would win 99 times in 100.

So it's a mistake to compare the Mitchell and Magruder cases. Mitchell lost his scalp. There isn't a chance that Magruder will.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Jack Dempsey will be the magnet at the next real big heavyweight battle Tex Rickard stages.

This can be accepted as a fact. Rickard's statement since the recent battle of the long count coupled with remarks he made to me before the fight indicated clearly the trend of his mind. Rickard had the recently checked comeback campaign of Dempsey mapped out a year in advance. He has the next bout in mind right now.

Rickard, discussing Dempsey and Tunney before the recent Chicago battle, was duly appreciative of Tunney's value as a champion, but he went further in discussing Dempsey.

"Jack Dempsey is the most popular fighter the game has ever known or ever will know," said Rickard. "He has the punch. He has the personality. He has the fighting instinct that the public likes. It wasn't the champion the fans crowded around when Jack was king. It was Dempsey, the man who had beaten Willard down and had given them what they wanted, a fighting tiger of a champion. Dempsey has done nothing but made friends since then. He has been more popular as an ex-champion than as champion. I can't explain it. He's a public institution right now. "It doesn't matter whom you put in the ring against him. The public wants to see Jack in action."

The greeting given Dempsey when he entered the ring and the cries of "you're still champion" after the fight verify Rickard's statements.

Now, since the Tunney fight, Tex has made the prophetic statement that "as long as Dempsey can fight the way he does he will make a good opponent for any man."

Both Jack Sharkey and Paulino Uzcudun, the Spaniard, were introduced from the ring at Chicago the other night. Small town stuff unless there was an ulterior motive in keeping these two drawing cards before the public.

Dempsey has whipped Sharkey once. Paulino is a rugged fighter but more of a slugger than Sharkey—more of Dempsey's type. A knock-out victory over the Spaniard in a crushing, grueling battle which would give Dempsey a chance to cut his man down in the old accustomed style would give Rickard the background needed for another big mill.

The plan of procedure is mere speculation. But there is little left for imagination in the views expressed by Rickard. Watch the cards.

Dick Hanley, serving his novitiate as coach of the much sung Northwestern eleven, and Tad Weiman, newly crowned coach at the University of Michigan, have one problem in common—and may take the same road in working it out.

Benny Friedman, wonder quarterback of Michigan and one of the all-Americans to step out last fall, did practically all the passing for the Wolverine squad. Benny Oosterbaan, now captain, was on the receiving end.

Now, according to close followers of the doing of the Michigan squad, Weiman is coaching the lad with the double-barreled vowels to leave the passes. Passing is not entirely new to Captain Benny II, of course, but he never had a steady diet of passing.

At Northwestern, Ralph Baker did all the heaving the last two years at least. The "Grange of Evanston" has departed, of course. Now Hanley has let it be known that he will depend upon Gustafson, new skipper of the team, to hurl at least some of the passes in the offensive being laid out. Gustafson centered his energies last year on running with the ball.

HOME ELEVEN MEETS PARKER HIGH TEAM

O. S. and S. O. Home football eleven was scheduled to meet the strong Parker High School team at McKinley Park in Dayton Friday afternoon. The game was called off at 3 p. m.

Coached by R. F. Insley, former Wittenberg College football player, the Home team has lost one game and tied another in two played this season.

The Home and East High School Xenia, played to a 19-19 tie in the opening game. Wilmington High defeated the Home last week.

REHEARSALS START FOR "ALL ABOARD"

Rehearsals for the musical comedy, "All Aboard" to be given by the Order of Eastern Star, October 19 and 20 at City Hall Theater, started in earnest Thursday night at the Masonic Temple. Miss Taylor of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., was in charge of the rehearsal. All the participants were enthusiastic at the conclusion of the rehearsal.

HIGHWAY DIRECTOR FAVORS CROSSING ELIMINATION PLAN

State Highway Director G. F. Schlesinger is still anxious to hold a hearing on the necessity and expediency of eliminating the grade crossing on the Jamestown Pike with the Pennsylvania Railroad, near the eastern limits of Xenia, where four deaths occurred as the result of an accident several weeks ago, it is learned.

Co-operation of Greene County Commissioners is needed in this project, it is said.

Director Schlesinger recently made a trip to Xenia and personally inspected the grade crossing, expressing the opinion its elimination could be brought about at a minimum cost of $50,000. Half of the expense would be shared equally by the state highway department and Greene County, while the railroad would be required to pay the balance.

It is understood that Schlesinger suggested a new road bed should be cut for the Jasper Pike, so that the road would parallel the rail road east for about one-fourth of a mile to a place where it would join the Jamestown Pike at a point where elimination of the crossing is contemplated. Thus two crossings would be served as two crossings would be abolished, for the cost of eliminating one.

Data prepared by the state bureau of vital statistics, indicated Greene County's death rate at railroad and interurban crossings in 1926 was unusually high and a third greater than the average for the eighty-eight counties in Ohio. It is learned that 189 deaths occurred in Ohio at railroad crossings in 1926 while seventy-one fatalities resulted at interurban crossings. Nine deaths were reported in Greene County, as compared with the state average of three per county, the bureau stated.

TAX DISTRICTS MUST SLICE BUDGETS TO KEEP WITHIN LIMIT

Faced with the necessity of making a reduction of 2.80 mills to keep their total 1928 budget requests within the 15 mill limitation, set by law, members of the City Commission, City Board of Education and County Commissioners will meet for a joint conference with the County Budget Commission next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Budget requests of the city, township, library county and city school board for next year, within the 15 mill limitation, submitted to County Auditor R. O. Wead for consideration by the Budget Commission, aggregate 17.80 mills, which is 2.80 mills in excess of the maximum allowed under the law.

No reduction can be made in the twentieth of a mill allowed the township for general operating expenses while the district library appropriation of two-tenths of a mill also must remain the same.

The budget reductions must consequently be made from the city, county or city school board requests. The joint conference is for the purpose of discussing ways and means as to how the slice of 2.80 mills can be best distributed.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Madeleine Shoup of St. Joseph, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their housework easily, happy homes are the result.

"Pink Tea" Inhibition Declared Handicap to Women Workers By ROSE SCHNEIDERMAN, President of the Women's Trade Union League

(Rose Schneiderman received her schooling in New York and went to work at an early age in one of the department stores. Her trade union experience began in 1903, when, as a capmaker, she helped organize a branch of the hat and capmakers. Since that time she has devoted most of her time to trade union movements and has been president of the Women's Trade Union League since 1917.)

Factory women—sturdy, hard-working types of femininity that they present—suffer paradoxically from a "pink tea" inhibition that is the greatest handicap woman's labor organization meets today.

The four-square type of woman worker who is up at dawn to get her family's breakfast, is at the factory door at 7, and hurries home at the close of day to cook another meal and bend over the family wash-tub—whose lot is rough, vigorous and hard, still believes in the majority of instances that it is not "quite nice nor ladylike" to join a union and strike the boss if necessary for higher wages and shorter hours.

They think that if they go out and join a union they are announcing to the world that they work in a factory. Strange as it seems, many women do not wish to disclose that fact. It is all right and refined if they go to business, but if they work in a factory it is not really ladylike and something to keep from the world.

It is not the settled married woman worker who is the most interested in union activities. It is the younger woman worker, although she be at the age when affairs of the heart are distracting. She is the one who wants shorter working hours so that she can be fresh for gayety and recreation in the evening. Clothes are a life matter to her, and she wants more money to purchase them.

In time the married woman worker will not try to keep up with two jobs. At present home replaces the affairs of the heart.

The married man worker now goes home from work to a clean shirt and dinner. The married woman worker goes home to wash the shirt and cook the dinner. When woman labor gets into the skilled class, when higher wages and shorter hours are brought about, women will work at their jobs and pay some one else to do their home work.

And that will be brought about when women forget their "pink tea" inhibitions.

INFANT ATTACKED BY SWARMING BEES

Although his body is covered with more than seventy welts, inflicted when he was attacked by bees when he wandered into the orchard apricot on the farm of his grandfather, the two and one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Simison, residing between Cedarville and Xenia, is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Simison and their small son were visiting at the home of Mrs. Simison's father, Hiram Rogers, Federal Pike, near Jamestown, Wednesday. The child wandered into the orchard and in a short time his body was covered with the stinging bees.

His screams attracted his mother, who attempted to fight off the bees. When she was stung more than thirty times, she was forced to abandon saving the child who was drenched with water by his grandmother.

William Fulton, 49, former Xenian, brother of Miss Beas Fulton, N. King St., died in Hayden, Colo., Tuesday. Death was the result of influenza and a nervous collapse.

Mr. Fulton had been in ill health some time. His nineteen year old son, George William, was in an accident six weeks ago, receiving a fractured skull and his condition was hopeless for weeks. When his condition improved, Mr. Fulton collapsed and his death occurred suddenly.

Mr. Fulton is the father of little Gertrude Fulton, who has been with her aunt, Miss Fulton, since the death of her mother five years ago. Besides Gertrude and Mr. Fulton's two sons, George William and Clifford, seven years old, five brothers, Charles and Edward, of Hayden,

They think that if they go out and join a union they are announcing to the world that they work in a factory. Strange as it seems, many women do not wish to disclose that fact. It is all right and refined if they go to business, but if they work in a factory it is not really ladylike and something to keep from the world.

It is not the settled married woman worker who is the most interested in union activities. It is the younger woman worker, although she be at the age when affairs of the heart are distracting. She is the one who wants shorter working hours so that she can be fresh for gayety and recreation in the evening. Clothes are a life matter to her, and she wants more money to purchase them.

In time the married woman worker will not try to keep up with two jobs. At present home replaces the affairs of the heart.

The married man worker now goes home from work to a clean shirt and dinner. The married woman worker goes home to wash the shirt and cook the dinner. When woman labor gets into the skilled class, when higher wages and shorter hours are brought about, women will work at their jobs and pay some one else to do their home work.

And that will be brought about when women forget their "pink tea" inhibitions.

Mr. and Mrs. Simson and their small son were visiting at the home of Mrs. Simson's father, Hiram Rogers, Federal Pike, near Jamestown, Wednesday. The child wandered into the orchard and in a short time his body was covered with the fighting bees.

BROTHER OF XENIAN DIES IN COLORADO

William Fulton, 49, former Xenian, brother of Miss Beas Fulton, N. King St., died in Hayden, Colo., Tuesday. Death was the result of influenza and a nervous collapse.

Mr. Fulton had been in ill health some time. His nineteen year old son, George William, was in an accident six weeks ago, receiving a fractured skull and his condition was hopeless for weeks. When his condition improved, Mr. Fulton collapsed and his death occurred suddenly.

Mr. Fulton is the father of little Gertrude Fulton, who has been with her aunt, Miss Fulton, since the death of her mother five years ago. Besides Gertrude and Mr. Fulton's two sons, George William and Clifford, seven years old, five brothers, Charles and Edward, of Hayden,

Mr. Fulton was born in Xenia and went to Colorado when he was a young man, where he has since resided. Funeral services and burial took place in Hayden.

REFLECTORS SHOW CITY'S NAME ON NEW XENIA LIMIT SIGNS

Two reflectors, illuminating the word "Xenia" on the city limits signs, were installed by the Greene County Automobile Club at the corporation lines of the city on the Springfield Pike and the Dayton Pike Thursday afternoon.

The reflectors were purchased from the American Gas Accumulator Co., Elizabeth, N. J., through Robert Kelly, city agent for this territory.

As a result, Xenia has the unique distinction among all cities of the United States, of being the first to make use of reflectors on city limits signs.

City commissioners will be invited to inspect the reflectors. Auto club officials may install similar devices at the corporation line of every main road leading into Xenia, including the Cincinnati Pike, Wilmington Pike, Jamestown Pike and Columbus Pike.

The letters composing the word "Xenia" are illuminated at night by the headlights of automobiles. The glow is discernible at a distance as great as 300 yards but the letters do not begin to take actual shape until the motorist is about 100 feet away, when they are easily distinguished.

It is the latest device for advertising a city. Letters are composed of Stinsonite glass, which reflects light to its source. Mounted on state highway city limits signs, the letters are four inches in height, although the New Jersey firm has another standard size of six inches. The state highway department has adopted eight different types of reflectors, manufactured by the Elizabeth company, for use on state routes.

Although installed more or less as an experiment Thursday, the new reflectors have already drawn much favorable comment from motorists, it is said.

Xenia is the first city in which the reflectors have been introduced. Autoists have added opportunity to find out the exact location of the city limits.

DAYTON DETECTIVES ARREST WRIGHT FIELD PLANE THIEVES

Four persons are in the custody of federal authorities in connection with the theft of accessories from planes at Wilbur Wright field during the last four months. Dayton detectives arrested the quartet Tuesday and Wednesday.

Pete Hutchinson, 26, 3226 E. Third St., Dayton, was released Thursday under bond of $1,000. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned on the charge and will be given a hearing next Wednesday before U. S. Commissioner William A. Rogers.

Miller Kelly, 29, R. R. 3, New Carlisle; Clarence E. Blankenship, 23, New Carlisle, and Robert Thompson, 30, 824 Highland Ave., Dayton, will be questioned in connection with the theft of the articles.

Hutchinson admits taking the articles, all of which were recovered.

ADVANTAGE OF WORK FOR CHILDREN TOLD BY SCHOOL TEACHER

"The work of the P. T. A. in helping to take care of the underprivileged children in Xenia has been of benefit to pupils and teachers. During the year 1926-1927, 680 lunches were provided for Spring Hill pupils," said Miss Eleanor Alexander, principal of Spring Hill School, who issued a statement Friday, urging public support of the P. T. A. drive next Tuesday for funds for this purpose.

"Pupils who have been given better food and warmer clothing have shown a marked improvement in their school work, as they are better able to attend, are more alert and more receptive," Miss Alexander said.

"Before the children received the help from the P. T. A. children were often absent from school because they lacked the necessary clothing and nourishing food, but now with the help of the P. T. A. their deficiency has been overcome and pupils have a better chance to keep up with their class and not become discouraged by failure."

"The work of the P. T. A. is a valuable asset in the training of boys and girls to be better citizens."

SHIPPING BOARD ATTACHE FACES JAIL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Convicted of falsifying vouchers of the United States Shipping Board, Clifford P. Cowen, formerly of Lewis-town, Pa., will be sentenced in criminal court today.

While acting as office manager of the shipping board, Cowen is alleged to have padded vouchers and turned in fake expense accounts. He was arrested several years ago, but the case has been delayed frequently.

Cowen's case has been investigated by a probation officer and there may be a recommendation that he be given a suspended sentence.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN STARTED BY CLUB; VISITING SCHOOL

Education of school children is the object of the annual safety campaign being conducted by the Greene County Auto Club. The drive began October 1.

Auto club officials visited three schools Thursday and expected to visit three more buildings Friday. It is planned to carry the campaign to every school building in Xenia and Greene County.

Various safety slogans are put in conspicuous places in every building and a set of lessons in safety is being taught pupils of the first, second and third grades.

The lessons may be continued in the three lower grades throughout six months of the school year. The study in safety methods is being given along with regular classroom work.

"Safety" calendars have also been furnished by the club to the first, second and third grades of schools over the county.

CARRIER PIGEON FOUND NEAR ALPHA

A carrier pigeon, thought to have become exhausted after a long flight, was found by A. J. Shank, near Alpha, in his barn, Friday afternoon.

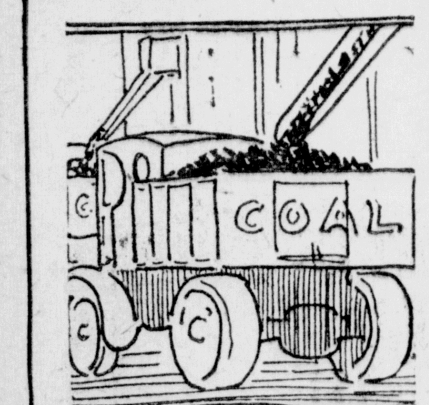

Two hands were on the bird's legs, one of rubber, bearing the lettering 376L and a metal band with the numbers 321, AJ-27 and GHC. The Shank family fed and cared for the bird and released it when it was able to fly.

THE LADY CALLED FATE

BY JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

© 1927 CENTRAL PRESS ASS.

John Moore, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore ends himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, meets Manuel Lopez, Rodriguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He learns that Morton's business with these men had to do with the secret importation of arms into Mexico.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

"Watch!" thought John Moore in the shadows. "Why, he did not lend me any watch. What the devil! That is an excuse to get into my room. He's walking down there now."

He heard Clench rap on the door. This, John remembered, stood open, right by the bed.

Clench's voice again. "That's all right, Mr. Moore. I just came for my watch—Thanks. I can find it easy enough on the bureau—"

"By Jove!" puzzled John. "He sounds as if he were talking to me and I were answering him. He's in my room. No, he's out again."

Clench was saying. "Goodnight, sir."

John heard him walk down the long porch and halt midway for an instant to call, "I got it all right. Buena noches."

"Well, I'll be damned," exclaimed John Moore. He stood straining his ears to hear more.

But there was no more to hear. The silence of the night closed over the words. Clench had spoken as the waters of a pool close over the stone thrown into them. The silence deepened and spread; sinking from terrace to terrace, circling about beneath the shadows of the trees.

What he came for couldn't wait until morning—He came to tell me something they planned down there after I left. That's it! What the devil it is, is more than I can guess. I'll try and see him later. Now I am going to see the Ambassador."

There was no sound from the hill-down the bench he grasped the top of the wall and slowly drew himself up to where he could throw himself half across it. He twisted himself about until he lay full length along the wall and looked back into the garden.

"Who's that? Who's that? Who's that?" crooned the dove in the pepper tree.

"Who's that? Who's that? Who's that?" crooned the dove in the pepper tree.

John Moore shook himself a little. "It is, just as well you spoke up, you clammy water, you," he told the bird under his breath, "I was forgetting to breathe? I haven't learned to be nonchalant in melodrama yet. Give me time. Let me figure this thing out."

"Clench went to my room to get his watch. He told Rodriguez so. He told me so when he reached my door. And as far as I could judge from down here in the garden I told him to go ahead and get his blamed watch off the bureau. He went into the room, found the watch, and he got it. That was not there was a detail which did not bother him at all. Naturally, he thought it would not bother a man who could find that watch on that bureau. And he did find it. He told Rodriguez so. Wait a minute, now!"

"Clench told Rodriguez to begin with that he was going to my room for his watch. As his watch was not in my room he did not go for it. But Rodriguez must have thought he went for the watch. Now we are coming. He was foolish, Rodriguez coming. And he continued to fool Rodriguez. When he discovered I was not in bed—and he could easily discover that by touching the bed from the doorway—he spoke as if I were there. Clench did not disclose my absence. Why not? Obviously he was standing with me against Rodriguez."

"Why would he do that? Why did he trouble himself to come to my room at all tonight? He could have seen me easily enough in the morning—"

John heard him walk down the long porch and halt midway for an instant to call, "I got it all right. Buena noches."

"Well, I'll be damned," exclaimed John Moore. He stood straining his ears to hear more.

But there was no more to hear. The silence of the night closed over the words. Clench had spoken as the waters of a pool close over the stone thrown into them. The silence deepened and spread; sinking from terrace to terrace, circling about beneath the shadows of the trees.

What he came for couldn't wait until morning—He came to tell me something they planned down there after I left. That's it! What the devil it is, is more than I can guess. I'll try and see him later. Now I am going to see the Ambassador."

There was no sound from the hill-down the bench he grasped the top of the wall and slowly drew himself up to where he could throw himself half across it. He twisted himself about until he lay full length along the wall and looked back into the garden.

"Who's that? Who's that? Who's that?" crooned the dove in the pepper tree.

"Who's that? Who's that? Who's that?" crooned the dove in the pepper tree.

John Moore shook himself a little. "It is, just as well you spoke up, you clammy water, you," he told the bird under his breath, "I was forgetting to breathe? I haven't learned to be nonchalant in melodrama yet. Give me time. Let me figure this thing out."

"Clench went to my room to get his watch. He told Rodriguez so. He told me so when he reached my door. And as far as I could judge from down here in the garden I told him to go ahead and get his blamed watch off the bureau. He went into the room, found the watch, and he got it. That was not there was a detail which did not bother him at all. Naturally, he thought it would not bother a man who could find that watch on that bureau. And he did find it. He told Rodriguez so. Wait a minute, now!"

"Clench told Rodriguez to begin with that he was going to my room for his watch. As his watch was not in my room he did not go for it. But Rodriguez must have thought he went for the watch. Now we are coming. He was foolish, Rodriguez coming. And he continued to fool Rodriguez. When he discovered I was not in bed—and he could easily discover that by touching the bed from the doorway—he spoke as if I were there. Clench did not disclose my absence. Why not? Obviously he was standing with me against Rodriguez."

"Why would he do that? Why did he trouble himself to come to my room at all tonight? He could have seen me easily enough in the morning—"

What he came for couldn't wait until morning—He came to tell me something they planned down there after I left. That's it! What the devil it is, is more than I can guess. I'll try and see him later. Now I am going to see the Ambassador."

John Moore, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore ends himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, meets Manuel Lopez, Rodriguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He learns that Morton's business with these men

The Theater

"If a girl is born with the acting genius flaming within her, it takes only the shortest technical training to make her effective in great roles." This is the statement of Anita Loos, author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which is now being filmed.

Miss Loos is enthusiastic about Taylor, young blonde actress, and installed in the golden role. Lorelei Lee, leading woman of the film production. "There is a treasure of talent waiting to be discovered in the film and theater."

Taylor is an example of this theory."

W. C. Fields, stage and screen comedian, is confined to a hospital with injuries sustained when he was run over by a motor truck while working on his new picture. A vertebrae was fractured. Fields was seated near the truck when it started to back. To avoid being run over, Fields pulled himself up under the body, thus saving himself more serious injuries.

Movies certainly have taken Europe by storm. There are 160 new cinema shops being planned over there with total seating capacity of 200,000. Germany leads with plans for eighty new theaters.

The sequel to be produced to "What Price Glory" is entitled "The Cock Eyed World." In it we will follow Capt. Flagg and Sgt. Quirt into civilian life in New York City.

Rod La Rocque and Leatrice Joy are to be co-starred in a special titled "The Blue Danube."

YANKEES HOPING TO WIN FOUR STRAIGHT FROM PIRATE CREW

since Bush benched Cuyler two months ago for failing to slide to second.

The defeat of Vic Aldridge was a body blow to the Pirates, as no was regarded as a great "money pitcher." The Yanks took great liberties with his offerings. Babe Ruth was about the only man on the team who didn't hit him. Ruth went hitless, and rather disappointed the Pittsburgh fans who had expected he would hit at least one home run. The greatest kick they got out of Ruth was when he swung mightily and missed a third strike in the first inning and fell down when he had a chance to hit in the eighth with the bases loaded. The best the great man could do was to tap to the infield.

George Pipgras' pitching was one of the highlights of the series. The sturdy Minnesota right-hander baffled the Pirates with his fast ball which had a sharp jump to it. The Pirates were knocking flies all afternoon. The whole New York club had only five assists which must be a record of some kind. Pipgras is a coming star. He compiled a record of thirteen victories and three defeats during the regular season and won four straight in September. He is at his best when under fire, and if the series goes a few games more will be heard from again.

Ten special trains pulled into the Pennsylvania station this morning with baseball players, sports writers and fans. One special carried the Pirates, another the Yankees and a third newspaper men while seven others carried fans. The number of passengers was estimated at 2,000. Seventy extra sleeping cars were provided.

MANY AUTOISTS ARE CARELESS SHERIFF LEARNS IN SURVEY

After stationing himself at Zimmerman on the Dayton and Xenia Pike with three other officers October 5 and stopping 220 passing automobiles in one hour and ten minutes, Sheriff Ohmer Tate reached the following conclusion:
That three autos had defective

headlights; that ten machines were found to have defective tail lights; that four cars had one license plate missing; that four autos had improperly located tags; that eight cars had dirty license tags; and that fifty-five motorists had neither their bill of sale nor license tag receipt in their possession.

The survey was made with the assistance of Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, Olin Cornwell, county road patrolman, and Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman.

Sheriff Tate, in issuing a warning condemning such carelessness on the part of automobile drivers, declared that similar surveys will be made from time to time on various highways in the county.
If the percentage of such violations of the law does not decrease, arrests will follow, it is warned.

FRIENDS PLANNING
INSANITY DEFENSE
FOR BOOTLEG KING

Remus Will Conduct Own Case—Cheered By Daughter

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 7.—George Remus, former "Bootleg King," stepped to the bar of police court this morning, and in a firm voice entered a plea of "not guilty," to slaying his wife, Mrs. Imogene Remus, when he was called for preliminary hearing in Municipal Court this morning.

The proceedings were very brief.

Remus' case was the first one called on the docket.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked Judge William D. Alexander.

Remus, cool and reserved, without a show of emotion, answered:

"Not guilty, your honor."

"Are you ready for trial?" he was asked.

"I waive examination, your honor," he answered.

A crowd of 300 persons filled the courtroom and corridor, but Remus' daughter Romola did not accompany him to the courtroom.

Despite his declaration that he is "perfectly sane" and that he would not plead insanity, the defense of Remus will be an insanity plea, according to his friends.

Mrs. Remus was shot as Remus snatched her from a taxi-cab in Eden Park here yesterday morning, as she was enroute to the Court, she was to press her divorce suit against the former bootlegger, who is rated a millionaire.

Preparations were complete here early today for a preliminary hearing of Remus on a charge of first degree murder, at which he was expected to enter a plea of not guilty and be ordered held without bail until the new grand jury, starting Monday, can investigate the case.

Anticipating the insanity plea, County Prosecutor C. P. Taft last night had Remus examined by Dr. W. C. Kendig, Hamilton County alienist. The findings of the alienist have not been made public.

Numerous friends of Remus gathered at the Big Four station here last night, and met his daughter, by a former marriage, Miss Romola Remus, 22, who came from Chicago, the former home of the Remus family, to be with her father.

"I've come to help daddy, because he needs me now," she declared.

Although Remus insists that he is "perfectly sane," and that he will reject all offers of counsel, and defend himself, his friends, expecting that competent counsel would be retained for him, and that temporary insanity would be offered as his chief defense.

Telegrams from W. W. (Ropes) O'Brien, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, and from Hugh J. Daly, former U. S. district attorney in New York, were said to have been received last night by Remus, proffering their services in his defense, but he told reporters he would not accept these offers.

Fashionably attired, and displaying but little emotion, Miss Remus was taken immediately to her father's cell on her arrival.

"I am here to cheer daddy up," she said. "When I received word that he was in trouble, I came by the first train. I can't say anything about the affairs leading up to it, and I don't know anything about daddy's mental condition, all I know is he needs me."

When Remus' cell door was opened, he rushed out into the visitor's corridor, and threw his arms around his daughter, crying "Romola, my baby!"

The two remained locked in a tight embrace for several minutes, and hardened jailers turned away. Remus then sought to reassure his daughter, as she whispered encouragement to him, and told him she would "stay with him to the end." Miss Remus later went to the home of friends of Remus here to spend the night.

"The loyalty of my baby overwhelms me," Remus said, after the girl had left the jail. "I feel more like facing a jury now. I did my duty by ridding society of a parasite. I am not afraid of the verdict of any twelve honest men. The unwritten law will prevail."

HUERTA'S BROTHER KILLED

MURDER VICTIM WAS PARASITE

ON SOCIETY DECLARES SLAYER

Remus Says He Raised Wife From Slums And Made Her Queen—Enjoys "Peace Of Mind" First Time, Bootleg King Says

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—"I'd planned to make her killing the most sensational deed in American crime. I'd intended to kill her and kill Dodge as they appeared to testify against me at a hearing before United States Probation Director Haynes in Washington.

"It wasn't because I wanted to create the sensation but because I wanted to make so much interest in the case that every detail would be brought out.

"I wanted to make so much interest I would have a chance to bring out every refinement of torture to which she and Dodge had subjected me and let the whole world know her for the kind of woman she was. I couldn't carry that through because they were never in the court room together."

George Remus, one-time Chicago lawyer, the brains and directing genius of the greatest liquor ring formed since prohibition, paced back and forth in the narrow confines of his cell in the county jail today and told his story, the first time he has really talked since the killing.

Remus told for the first time in his life that his total operations in the handling of illicit liquor in America reached more than $150,000,000.

He would not give a figure but from his method of outlining his operations it was evident that his profits from those operations during their period of time, could not have been less than $10,000,000.

"And yet today," he said, "I am practically broke."

"A rag, a bone and a hank of hair words enough to tell of her," he said.

"I married Imogene Holmes, made her my wife. I gave her everything that mortal woman, even though the vilest, most self centered woman in the world, could want."

"I made a queen of her, a queen of a woman of the slums. And she paid me—The fool was stripped to his foolish hide."

"I killed her—yes—and society should vote me a debt of gratitude."

Then Remus, for the first time since the murder, described the death scene.

"I had figured that I would never be able to get Dodge with her that I might kill them both. I felt too, in a way, that Franklin Dodge was just a man. He was a prohibition agent, at that. She had fallen in love with him."

"He could not resist her wiles any more than I had been able to resist her years before, when she took me from the one fine woman I've known in my life—my first wife."

"I determined to kill her, and made sure of that at least."

"I waited, in my car. She came along, out of the Alms Hotel with her daughter, Ruth."

"My car ran her car to the curb and she got out. I followed her and took her by the wrist."

"When I took her wrist I guess my face showed the murder that was in my heart. She turned that fawning, hypocritical face of hers up to me and said:

"'Aw, don't hurt me, daddy,—you know I love you.'"

"I thought of her coming to see me in the penitentiary at Atlanta—and of Dodge being at a hotel in this city. I thought of her wheedling my last securities, money, bonds out of me, on the plea that she was working to obtain my release and was carrying on the business while I was inside. I thought of her taking those very securities to lavish attentions on Dodge."

"I turned sick, actually and physically nauseated by her words."

"'Aw, don't hurt me, daddy,—you know I love you.'"

"The words will live in my mind as long as I draw breath. The living lie—"

For a moment Remus stopped. Words failed him. His hate left him dumb and he stopped pacing his cell to face his listener.

Then with an obvious effort he put his thoughts in order and resumed.

"I looked her in the eye. My actions were as cool as they will ever be in my life. I knew exactly what I was doing. I pulled her close to me. I held her wrist in my left hand. Then I took the pistol from my coat pocket."

"You hypocritical, parasite mass of clay! I told her 'you've been looking for it—take it.'"

"Then I gave it to her—pulled the trigger."

"Her face bore a look more of amazement than of pain or fear. She seemed unable to realize that she could no longer control my every word or deed."

"She slumped down, and then it was as though she were dead."

"Her daughter, Ruth, the daughter I had adopted and given the same luxuries that I gave my own daughter Romola, came up, and began tugging my coat. I pushed her away when her mother got up and started to run away. I started after her, afraid for a moment that I might not have done a thorough job. But she slumped down again and clasped her hands to her abdomen."

"Then I knew that I had not failed. An abdominal wound you know is fatal. I studied surgery in my younger day and I know that."

"For the first time in eight years I'm having peace of mind," Remus said. "I can think back and sort of put together the Chinese puzzle that has been my life."

LEADER OF INDIANS
IN MEXICAN REVOLT
SLAIN BY FEDERAL

Believe Gomez May Be Alive—Federal Troops Mass

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 7.—Alfonso De La Huerta, brother of the former provisional president of Mexico, and two aides, Generals Aguirre and Modine, were shot and killed by federal troops when surprised at the head of a small band of Yaqui Indians in the hills south of Nogales, Sonora, according to an unconfirmed report received here today.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Senora Gomez, wife of General Arnulfo Gomez, leading figure in the Mexican revolutionary movement, today expressed confidence that her husband had not been killed, as it has been reported.

"Although I have had no direct word from my husband since the outbreak, I am sure that he has not been killed in battle or executed," she asserted.

Senora Gomez is living here with her two children.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7.—Protesting his innocence and declaring that he acted upon superior orders when he marched out of Mexico City with the troops under his command, General Alfredo Quijano went to his execution bravely.

General Quijano, who was charged with having been a leader in the present rebellion, faced the firing squad without fear, and twice gave instructions that the squad should come nearer.

Smiling at newspaper correspondents (who witnessed his execution) General Quijano said "good-bye" as he saw the firing squad raise rifles.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 7.—Federal troops were reported to be massing at Ortiz, Sonora, Mexico, according to word received at the border here today.

A troop of cavalry was reported to have left Nogales, Sonora, for the state of Puebla, believed to be the main objective of the concentration movement, yesterday.

A brigade of federal forces was also said to be moving toward Puebla via the west coast.

The revolutionary movement in Mexico is said to be well advanced in Puebla.

Rumors were prevalent here that General Lucas Gonzales, a federal commander in the Yaqui district, had deserted and crossed the border to rally the Mexican exiles in the United States in the interest of the revolution.

Reports were also received that attempts of federal troops to capture General Arnulfo Gomez, revolutionary leader, near Vera Cruz, were unsuccessful.

LEVINE RETURNS TO FIGHT GOVERNMENT CLAIM OF $500,000

Flyer Defies Effort To Collect War Contract Taxes

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—Charles A. Levine, American trans-Atlantic flyer and owner of the famous plane Columbia, today defied the United States Government to collect its $500,000 claim against him when he returns to the United States next week.

Levine has just arrived here from Vienna. He expects to sail from England on the Leviathan next Tuesday.

"I do not fear any legal action at any time, despite the report from Washington that the government will try to collect half a million dollars alleged due in taxes upon war contracts," said the flyer. "We have a better claim against the government than the government has against us. For every nickel the government says I owe it a valid claim for a dollar. The government failed to live up to its contract with me. It did not and could not deliver several commitments made to me."

Levine hastily concluded his business engagements in Berlin and said good-bye to persons with whom he became acquainted after his arrival in the Columbia four months ago.

"I am going to return to the States according to my arranged plan," continued Levine. "I have been promised a reservation upon the Leviathan and I expect to sail upon that liner from England next Tuesday. I have engaged passage to fly to Dortmund in a Lufthansa plane this afternoon. From Dortmund I shall motor to Cologne and intend to fly from Cologne to London tomorrow."

"I do not expect any public reception when I reach New York. I guess it is too late for any reception now."

Levine will take back with him a blue print design for a 50-passenger, seven-motored airplane for overseas flights beginning next summer.

The new plane, which will be powered with motors of 800 horse power, will have a wing spread of 180 feet and a flying radius of 2,500 miles.

Compartment for passengers will be built in the wings. The plane was designed by a French engineer. Provision is made for repair of motors while the plane is in flight.

Levine said he would have the machine built during the winter at a cost of $500,000 so that he could undertake the first trans-Atlantic flight early in the summer.

YANKEES HOPING TO WIN FOUR STRAIGHT
FROM PIRATE CREW

"Don't Count Us Out," Says Bush—May Use Meadows

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—"Four straight" was the battle cry of the New York Yankees as they returned home today from Pittsburgh where they rode roughshod over the Pirates in the two opening games of the World Series, winning the first 5 to 4 and the second 6 to 2. This is a decidedly ambitious program for no club has made it a clean sweep in the annual baseball classic since the Boston Braves won four consecutive games from the Philadelphia Athletics in 1914.

The idea of four straight is scored by the Pirates. They are due to win, and they think they will win today when the two clubs resume hostilities in the Yankee stadium where upwards of 60,000 are expected to view the struggle.

"Don't count us out," said Manager Donie Bush. "We've been in tight spots before. I've got a game ball club with plenty of power, and I'm banking on them to show it."

The Pirates were a grim, determined aggregation when their special pulled into New York this morning. They realized their backs are to the wall, that they've got to win now or never. They had no excuses to offer over yesterday's convincing defeat. They were out-hit, out-pitched and out-fielded but not out-gamed. Game-ness did not enter the issue as the pitchers, Vic Aldridge and Mike Cvetkovic, tossed the game away. They lost the first battle by errors at crucial stages. But so far they have hit almost as heavily, if not as opportunely as the Yanks, having made sixteen hits in two games as compared with seventeen registered by the New York club.

Bush was undecided whether to start one of his spectacular pitchers Lee Meadows or Carmen Hill, on the mound or trust the assignment to John Miljus. Meadows and Hill are "crazy veterans, a trifle old, but very dependable, while Miljus showed in his relief pitching Wednesday that he knew how to peg them to the Yanks. He stopped them cold, allowing but one hit in four innings.

Manager Huggins of the Yanks will pitch either Herb Pennock, his star southpaw, or Wilcy Moore. Pennock's injured knee is almost well, and he is eager to get into the series.

What effect, if any, a change in scenery will have on the Pirates remains to be seen. They did not have a whole-hearted support in Pittsburgh, especially yesterday, when the fans booed Bush for selecting Earl Smith as pinch hitter instead of using Kiki Cuyler. "We want Cuyler," was the cry of thousands of Pittsburgh fans who do not forget that it was Kiki's heavy hitting that won the World Series for Pittsburgh in 1925. Bush and Cuyler have not been friendly (Continued on Page Ten)

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The third game of the World Series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, may be summarized in one word: "Herb Pennock."

Evidently an injury to his knee on the eve of the opening game made a wonderful pitcher of the Yankee hurler, for he let the Pirates down with three hits and one run, as the American League champions rang up their third straight victory by the lopsided score of 8 to 1.

Pennock hurled perfect baseball for the first seven innings showing not a sign of a hit and not a first pitch reached first base. The first twenty-two batters to face him went out in order.

Pie Traynor spoiled a possible no-hit game when he singled in the eighth with one out. Barnhart followed with a double which scored Traynor with Pittsburgh's lone run.

By his marvelous pitching exhibition, Pennock maintained his record of never having lost a world's series contest. Meadows, starting Pirate pitcher, hurled equally well for six innings after being scored upon twice in the first, but weakened in the seventh when the Yankees bunched four hits for six runs.

During this hectic inning, Babe Ruth knocked the first home run of the series with two on base. The Yankees obtained nine hits and fielded in errorless fashion. The Pirates made one misplay in the field, a wild throw by Traynor. Lou Gehrig was the Yankee batting star. He hit a triple, that scored two runners in the first inning, and later collected a double and base on balls, fanning his last time at bat.

The Pirates are now three down to New York, to borrow a golfing phrase, and must win four straight games to end the series.

FIRST INNING

Pittsburgh—L. Waner out, Koenig to Gehrig. Meusel took Rhyne's long drive after a hard run. P. Waner skied to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

New York—Combs drove a single through the pitcher's box. Meadows touched the ball with his bare hand. Koenig hit to Meadows, who deflected the ball to Rhyne. Both runners are safe and it was scored a hit. Ruth popped to Wright, who made the catch behind second base. Gehrig tripled to the running track between left and center, scoring Combs and Koenig, but "Columbia Lou" was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch it into a home run, by L. Waner's accurate throw, which cut off the extra run. Meusel fanned. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Pittsburgh—Wright out. Lazzeri tossed out Traynor. Lazzeri also gobbled up Barnhart's difficult grounder and threw him out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

New York—Lazzeri was called out on strikes. Grabowski grounded to Wright and Harris made a beautiful pickup of a bad throw for the putout. Pennock out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Harris raised a fly to Combs. Gooch was called out on strikes, failing to offer at any pitch. Lazzeri tossed out Meadows. No runs, no hits, no errors.

New York—Pennock was retired on a sharp grounder, Rhyne to Harris. Combs lifted a fly to L. Waner. Wright robbed Koenig of a hit by taking his short fly on the dead run while facing the outfield. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FORE!

NEW YORK CITY.—While in a subway train, Frank Miller, a peddler, was suddenly seized with an uncontrollable desire to play golf. Using his umbrella as a golf club, the electric light bulbs as balls, he played before the amazed passengers several holes until the conductor was able to interrupt him. Taken before the judge Miller did not remember the incident.

NINTH INNING

Pittsburgh—Groh, batting for Cvengros, popped to Pennock. L. Waner dropped a short single in left field. Combs camped under Rhyne's high fly. L. Waner stole second. Lazzeri took P. Waner's high pop fly. No runs, one hit, no errors.

UNPARDONABLE SIN
IS BLASPHEMY SAYS
EVANGELIST HERE

Those Who Cannot Believe Will Not Be Saved, He Says

There is one sin that will not be forgiven by God, Dr. W. E. Biederwolf said Thursday night at the First M. E. Church, at the union gospel services.

"Every sin that man can commit with the exception of this one will be forgiven of God, if the proper repentance is shown. But the one sin that will not be forgiven is all manner of blasphemy against the Holy Spirit."

"Men can commit murder, rob their friends, and do other evil things, and repenting to God for their sins will be forgiven. But when you hear a man blaspheming the word of God you can put it in your book that his soul is beyond redemption. The unpardonable sin is not some specific sin, it is a state."

"There is a sin unto death and Jesus said in His Scripture we read that a man never could be forgiven for it, neither in this world, nor in the world to come, and because such a thing is possible, his mighty important for men and women who are liable to get into this fearful condition to know something of what Jesus meant."

"Listen to the testimony of Scripture on unpardonable sin: In the book of Genesis the sixth chapter, God says 'My spirit will not always strive with men.' Three times God told Jeremiah not to pray for certain people because there was no hope for them. Paul speaks of men whom heaven had 'given up.' In the book of Proverbs: 'Then shall they call on me but I will not answer, for they have knowledge and did not choose the fear of the Lord: therefore they shall perish.'"

YOUNGSTOWN MILLIONAIRE ENDS
LIFE; DESPONDENCY BLAMED

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 7.—John Stambaugh, Sr., 65, Youngstown millionaire, was dead today after committing suicide with a pistol at his palatial home near here late yesterday. Despondency over ill health was assigned as the motive.

The deceased was a director of the Federal Reserve Bank at Cleveland, the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, and several other large local corporations. He was prominent in civic activities and was chiefly responsible for the construction of the $2,000,000 Henry Stambaugh Memorial auditorium here last year.

Last winter Mr. Stambaugh suffered a nervous breakdown and has been in ill health since that time. He and his family had planned to go to New York last night, and were making final preparations at "Chalet," the Stambaugh home in Trumbull County, north of here, when the suicide occurred.

Mrs. Stambaugh and her son, John, Jr., heard the shot and found the body in a clump of shrubbery on the lawn. The bullet had been fired into the right temple, passing completely through the head.

"DIVORCE COSTS NOT NECESSARY EXPENSE"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Costs of divorce or separation suits are not "ordinary and necessary expenses of business," the United States Board of Tax Appeals ruled today.

In the appeal of Frank G. Robins, of New York, the board held that attorneys' fees in separation suits cannot be deducted from gross income for the purpose of computing federal taxes.

Robins made a deduction of $6,750 from his gross income in 1920, holding that this amount represented payments made to attorneys representing himself and wife in the latter's suit for separation.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue D. H. Blair held that the attorneys' fees were not "ordinary and necessary expenses of business." Under the revenue laws and refused to allow the deduction. Robins appealed to the tax board.

The separation suit was compromised, according to the tax board's statement.

Blair also disallowed Robins' claim of a loss of $15,516 on account of his assumption of payments of indebtedness of the Armstrong-Robins Corporation, of which he was a principal stockholder. The corporation became insolvent, according to the board, which upheld the Bureau of Internal Revenue on this point.

BOXER INJURED

CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—Steve Casper, 21, was reported in a serious condition in a local hospital today as the result of an amateur boxing bout last night. Casper's head hit the floor when his opponent, Joe Pelkey, knocked him down and he is suffering from a concussion of the brain.

they shall eat the fruit of their own doing, and be filled with their own devices."

"The New Testament—in John's Gospel, the twelfth chapter we are confronted with these words: 'They could not believe.' Many other passages of the New Testament were cited by the speaker as teaching that there was a state of life beyond the pardoning point, that God would not forgive in this world or in the world to come."

"The meaning of this is that they are beyond feeling after God or have any desire to be converted. 'Therefore they could not believe,' John 12:39. The evangelist emphasized the word 'could not' and then said, 'As long as a man has the power to repent and the disposition to do it, there is no sin that will put him beyond the pale of God's forgiveness.'"

Dr. Biederwolf declared the manner in which a person enters the unpardonable state and quoted this poetry—

"There is a line by us unseen
By which each path is crossed
Beyond which God himself hath sworn
That he who goes is lost."

"Listen to the testimony of nature. It is a law of nature that if a man will not do a thing the time is bound to come when he cannot do it. You go home from this meeting and take a rope and tie your arm to your side and simply leave that rope there long enough refusing to use that organ for the purpose God gave it to you and the time will come when you will have lost forever the capacity to lift that arm again. So with other parts of the body. So with the soul function," he said.

"Listen to the testimony of experience and observation." The speaker noted out of his long experience many of those who had come to the place that 'They could not believe' who had lost their sense of desire, for God and repentance and salvation. Then continued—

"I tremble as I think of giving the invitation tonight. I do not want ever to think that anyone has committed this awful crime against the Holy Ghost under my preaching. So much rather would that you go home tonight without an invitation than to say that fatal 'No' to God tonight, but as ambassador of God, standing in Christ's stead, tonight, I must give you this opportunity. Say 'Yes' to God."

The Trinity Sunday School Orchestra gave a prelude of music under the leadership of Miss Marjorie Street. The Rev. A. J. Furstenberger led in the opening prayer, and the Rev. L. A. Washburn in the closing prayer. A number was given by a group of seven men, part of a double quartet, Roy Spahr, Carl Ervin, Glen Reed, Bayless Thompson, Thomas McClelland, Herman Eavey, Harry Seifert. The Rev. Homer Grimes sang a beautiful solo "Nobody Cares Somebody Cares."

Herman Eavey announced, the "free will" offering for Dr. Biederwolf which will be taken Sunday. Three services were announced for Sunday, at 10:45 a. m. for everybody. It was stated in connection with this service that provision would be made to take care of all who wanted to attend the service to hear Dr. Biederwolf, an intimation that if the first M. E. overflows, provision would be made not to disappoint any one, but to have him speak to the overflow in a nearby auditorium. Friday night—"Off on the Right Foot." Saturday short meeting at 7:30 at church, street meeting afterwards.

WILL GRADE HONEY

Ohio beekeepers interested in knowing what grade of extracted honey they produce may find out now through the agricultural college extension service at the Ohio State University.

One of the new United States graders has been bought for the university, and will be available for grading Ohio beekeepers' samples free of charge, announces Virgil N. Argo, extension specialist in beekeeping at Columbus. Samples for testing should be eight ounces or more.

Beekeepers who visited the Ohio State Fair this year saw a standard honey grader operated by a representative of the agriculture division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This grader which determines the exact color of the honey, has been devised and adopted by the federal department after study and approval of beekeeping and marketing specialists.

"As soon as the standard honey grades become familiar to all beekeepers," explains Mr. Argo, "there will be a more general appreciation of fine quality in honey production, and some of the few beekeepers who are now putting inferior honey on the market will make a greater effort to improve the appearance of their wares."

"A uniform standard of quality can do more in holding the price of honey where it should be than almost anything else. The reason the

Herb Davis says his idea of helpfulness is to bring a basket of fruit to the sick man and then sit on the bed and eat it.

We are receiving a nice crop of wheat from Mr. L. A. Anderson of the Burlington Pike.

We heard yesterday of the young minister who was invited out to dine just before his evening sermon. He sat politely at the table but didn't eat. "I never eat before I deliver an address," he explained. After the address that evening, the host went to him and said, "Well, you might jest as well of it."

OCEAN HOP CASUALTY

Jake Moellendick used to be a laborer in the Kansas oil fields. One day he took a ride in an old army airplane, in order to get to a field where a well was about to be brought in. Jake liked the plane and the aviator so well that he bought the one and hired the other. He set his aviator up in the airplane manufacturing business in Wichita. That was the beginning of the plane business in Wichita, where there are now five airplane factories.

Jake built the Dallas Spirit that did the fatal tail-spin into the Pacific while it was searching for the lost Dole flyers. After that tail-spin Jake was taken to a sanitarium, a nervous wreck. He had lost his two friends, his plane, and months of hard work. Jake Moellendick is one of the casualties of the long-distance flights.

COST OF PROGRESS

Charles Lindbergh very aptly points out that flying the mail was more dangerous, hour for hour in the air, when it was begun, than flying across the ocean is now.

That's a valuable thought. Do you remember how air mail pilots were killed, one after another, when the air mail was new? And that wasn't so long ago, was it?

There was an insistent public demand then that the air mail project be given over altogether. Who would suggest now that the air mail service be discontinued?

Doubtless, there were a good many needless deaths in the early history of the air mail. That is to say, men were killed because they were flying old crates that were left over from the war. And they were flying them over dangerous routes that were not properly marked.

But that's the way things start. If the postoffice hadn't been willing to start with left-over army planes, the air mail never would have been started. If the postoffice had waited until the routes were all marked and the landing fields all laid out, we'd have had no air mail for another fifty years. Remember, it's the air mail that has been the chief incentive to the laying out and dedication of proper landing fields.

VALUE RECOGNIZED

A. A. Anderson, secretary of the Pacific Coast Building Loan association, in an address at the Pacific States Savings and loan conference, recommends newspaper advertising as the most effective and economical means of reaching the public. Further, he urged that the building-loan associations throughout the United States should have a fund of at least $1,000,000 for such a campaign.

As Mr. Anderson knows, it has been fully demonstrated that the newspaper stands by itself as a carrier of messages to the greatest possible number of people. It is the only medium that is sure to reach the citizens of a community and be read. This fact is being more fully appreciated every day.

The smaller city dailies and country weeklies are the great medium for reaching the masses of the people who represent the majority of the reading and buying power of the nation.

BASEBALL AT NIGHT

Electricity is now scheduled to bring professional baseball at night. It has already fooled the hens and caused them to lay eggs overtime, raised plants where formerly only darkness prevailed, has furnished food for trout farms by causing bugs to fly low to the water, freezes ice, curls milady's hair and does so many other unheard-of things, that lighting a baseball diamond at night will seem tame in comparison.

The Way of the World

FAT OR LEAN

Good-natured, fat men are likely to be successful in business. They are at the head of big business organizations. Lean, hungry-looking men are the successful political and military leaders of the world. So say those who diagnose character from appearance. They forget that Napoleon was a little, plump man. No young man can safely choose his line of work in accordance with his physical characteristics.

Young men, figuring on success in life, sometimes take the closest, easiest, most convenient job. To go into a line you do not enjoy, that you are not interested in, just because it is convenient, is dead waste. Determine the thing you are most interested in and go after that, whatever the cost and the hardship.

THE GARY RULES

The late Judge Gary was past fifty years old when he went to New York to become head of the company which preceded the U. S. Steel corporation. For nearly 30 years after that he lived an active business life and worked hard. How did he do it? E. J. Clapp calls our attention to the fourteen rules for good health given out by Gary two years ago. They are worth noting:

1. Exercise in the open air, but do it moderately.
2. Breathe deeply of pure air as much as possible.
3. Leave alcoholic stimulants alone. Take tea and coffee if you happen to like them.
4. Drink pure water.
5. Eat little starch, fat or sweets, eat plenty of green vegetables containing mineral salts, eat whole wheat bread, eat fresh fruit, and drink milk if it agrees with you.
6. Follow regular habits.
7. Get plenty of sleep.
8. Work hard, mentally and physically, but not too long.
9. Lead a good, clean life.
10. Keep an even temper and avoid excitement.
11. Never get angry or indulge in controversy.
12. Obey the Golden Rule.
13. Eat only to satisfy the hunger, not to please the palate.

NEWS COMMENT AND VIEWS

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

By
Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Tradition and precedent are as nothing to Mrs. Word Leigh, an extraordinary young woman living hereabouts. Not only for purposes of a good story, but in actuality, Mrs. Leigh is beautiful—and she has a mind of her own. Some time ago, she startled residents of the small Westchester town in which she lives, by garbing her horse "Lady" in specially made trousers, in order to protect the animal from flies. But it is a rare horse who will submit so much an indignity and Lady soon did away with the unmanly garments.

At present Mrs. Leigh declares that she is hot on the trail of the secret of "perfect living." To inaugurate her system, she proposes to live in a house which will be almost entirely made of glass. The house, in fact, is nearing completion and Mrs. Leigh is to move in shortly. The building was constructed by a company which also makes recreation greenhouses. In truth, the new residence will look greatly like a greenhouse. But wings jutting out to the east, north and south. Thus will the lady bask always in sunshine, which she believes along with a great many others, is an absolute necessity to proper health. And it is rumored that the local police force have quieted down after Mrs. Leigh denied the rumor that her glass house would not have shades.

There is, on Broadway, an elaborate motion picture, dedicated to the dead heroes of a certain branch of the army in the late war. This same picture was made with the help of a number of enlisted men in the national army, all of whom gave their services to the picture company without cost. When the first showing of the completed film was announced in a nearby town, the thirty-dollar-a-month army men were not overjoyed when they received invitations (at five dollars each) to the film which they had risked their necks in making.

Recently Captain Denman, a war hero and a representative of the Bristol-Jupiter company, arrived in New York, to await the landing of the transatlantic planes, using the Bristol-Jupiter motor. A distinguished career as an aviator in the World War availed him nothing, for, he was informed that tickets could be purchased at 50 cents in advance of box office prices, when he expressed a desire to see the picture, which was dedicated to mer like himself.

At this time, Park avenue is a virtual nightmare. The operations, which are to do away with the parkway in the center of the avenue, are in full blast. Between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth street, the street is entirely cut off and for two blocks here, on either side of the avenue, only steel girders cover the tracks of the underground railroad. In order to let traffic through, from Forty-fifth to Forty-sixth, it has been necessary to build a roadway directly through a new building which is under construction. Cars travel northward on this. On Vanderbilt avenue, parallel to this synthetic highway, traffic proceeds only in a southerly direction. Because of this confusion, I paid a taxi bill of 50 cents, in going from Lexington and Forty-second to Park and Forty-sixth. A distance of five short blocks. The journey took me 25 minutes.

HIGH PRICES AND VANITY

What an astounding range and amount of business might go to smash if human vanity were eliminated!

Even articles which fill a sensible need sometimes make their chief appeal through the vanity of those expected to buy. The highest-priced books are not necessarily the ones that people would profit most by reading, but are more likely to be merely limited editions, each volume numbered, for the purpose of making the buyer feel importantly exclusive.

Nine women out of ten who wear much costly jewelry insist they like precious gems for their beauty. Yet those who wear the most jewelry are often the ones least capable of appreciating beauty.

If beauty were the major reason for jewels, then costly emeralds, sapphires and rubies might all be replaced by manufactured stones which cost only a comparative trifle, but equal in coloring those from the mine.

"Ah," I heard a woman retort to this, "but I don't like anything artificial. I want my things to be genuine."

If that policy were generally heeded, a long list of articles in acceptable everyday use, including perfumes, would come under the ban. A woman does not object to anointing herself with violet toilet water, and yet the violet odor comes not from flowers picked in bosky dells but from unsavory chemicals in a factory.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

How to Develop a Charming Voice

I believe there is almost as great a variety of voices as of faces. You know that when a close friend calls you on the telephone almost always you will recognize her voice instantly. There are low, sonorous voices, high pitched, bell-like voices, squeaky voices, rasping voices—all speaking the same language, but speaking it, oh, so differently!

Have you ever thought, when you heard a woman speak, "I would go mad if I had to listen to that voice every day?" Quite likely the possessor of the voice that irritates you so does not realize that the sounds coming from her mouth vary greatly from those you utter.

Very few women, unless they are in a profession such as singing, the stage or public speaking, really know how to use their voices. Occasionally someone is born with such ear for sound and such natural control of the vocal organs that the speaking voice is charming without effort, but this is just about as frequent as a natural singing voice that has had no training. It is a gift of the gods, but even that can be improved with cultivation.

The first essential in cultivating a beautiful speaking voice is to breathe properly. Breathe deeply from the diaphragm, not from the chest or the stomach. You can tell by placing the tips of your fingers touching just below your ribs. Then if you feel the steady rise and fall with your breathing you are doing it in the right way. Practice breathing from your diaphragm five minutes a day lying down, and five standing by an open window. Then try to remember the sensation and gradually you will get the habit of correct breathing, and it will not feel natural to do it any other way.

To speak beautiful, you must have a relaxed, open throat. Think of a yawn, close your eyes and feel the relaxing of all the muscles. Then speak instead of yawning. Keep your lower jaw relaxed, your tongue flat and you will produce a good tone.

To free the inner cavities and make them act as sounding boards, do this exercise: Begin a humming, "m-m-m" with your lips closed, and let it flood your face until it simply has to come out. Then open your mouth, changing the humming to "ah." Repeat over and over the "m-m-m-m."

If you do all these things I have told you, then you will at last have a little start toward producing clear, resonant, attractive sounds when you speak. Another requisite of perfect speech is good enunciation. Enunciate your words clearly, sounding the last consonant. Then develop a pleasing rhythm and intonation. Do not try to keep your voice low or at any other certain pitch all the time, or you are likely to make it monotonous. Natural speech rises or falls, according to what it expresses. Allow yours to follow this natural trend. Avoid uneven jerks, uncalled for "oh's," "ah's," "wells," and "ands," or any semblance of stammering.

The perfect attribute to a charming voice is an attractive, well-shaped and nicely made-up mouth. In my next talk I shall take up lip make-up. Although I know I have told you something of this art in my other talks, it is really such an important high point in the whole ensemble of said about it, that I have no pricks of conscience in giving another day of it.

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Leftover meat may be deviled and made decidedly appetizing. Do you remember in Dickens' "David Copperfield," how David invites the Micawbers and Tumblers to dinner and the mutton not being done, it was "deviled" under Mr. Micawber's direction? And how good it tasted! Much the same kind of thing is done in the recipe following: Deviled Meat Lyonnaise Potatoes. Combination Salad. Fresh Apple Pie. Tea.

Today's Recipes

Deviled Meat—Make a batter of a tablespoon of English mustard three of flour, two beaten eggs, salt, cayenne, a teaspoonful of olive oil and a scant tablespoonful of vinegar. Cut any kind of cold meat in slices, soak it in this batter and fry a golden brown in hot shortening. Four what remains into a cupful of hot milk or broth, heat through and pour over the meat.

Lyonnaise Potatoes—Fry one medium sized onion sliced thin in two or three tablespoons of fat until a light brown. Add two cups sliced (or diced) cooked potatoes, a dash of salt and one of pepper. Cover pan and cook slowly until brown (5 to 15 minutes). Vinegar, one-half to one cup, may be added just before the cooking is finished, if desired.

Child's Quilt. An attractive covering for a quilt for a child's bed is composed of pages cut from three or four linen fast-color story books, alternating the squares with blocks of plain white or cream-colored linen. It will always be fascinating to the youngster who owns it.

Preparedness

You need not wait until the last minute to mix up the dough for hot biscuits. Mix them in the morning and keep them in an ice box until ready to bake.

is the matter with you, anyhow?"

Being spoken to so rudely by a perfect stranger to whom he'd done no harm, didn't at all please Peter.

"What's all this talk about hating the humans? You ought to be ashamed of yourself! Don't they feed you and house you and give you a warm seat by the fire?" demanded he. The words were scarcely out of Peter's mouth when with a leap and a bound the creature was on top of the leg, shaking its whiskers in the boy's very face.

"Stuff and nonsense! Set by the fire, indeed! As if I'd hang around indoors when I might be out in the woods. Cat! Who's a Cat? Poo! No fun in chasing you! You're too stupid. Dare say you wouldn't even run. I'd only waste my time trying to start something! Look again. Two-Legs! Did you ever know a Cat to have teeth or a tail like mine?"

The creature whirled around a tail hit Peter on the arm. Then back it switched again, and now the teeth were within a inch of the boy's nose. Peter stepped back in alarm.

"Teeth!" exclaimed he. "Why, you must have fifty! And, good gracious, Aunt Jemima! I haven't a bit of fur on the end of your tail. You're not Cat, that's a fact, though you have whiskers like him. But who in the world are you?"

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder certainly is in considerable disfavor with his fellow officers of Uncle Sam's sea establishment, on account of the rough things said recently about the navy, but the feeling against him is nothing to compare with the army's against Col. "Billy" Mitchell, at the time of the latter's aviation outbreak—and even yet, for that matter, though some of the edge was taken off from it, in the colonel's case, by the satisfaction his outraged associates got out of bouncing him from the service.

Magruder found fault with the navy, to be sure, but, after all, he didn't say it ought to be abolished. He said it has too many officers, but not 100 per cent too many. Mitchell put it that surface armies and navies alike are obsolete—absolutely—and that all connected with them are out-and-out parasites, except possibly a few orderlies, to run errands for airmen.

Naval officers speak in a hurt tone of what they term the "injustice" of Magruder's criticisms. Army officers call Mitchell names that couldn't be printed.

Another very important difference between Magruder and Mitchell—Magruder got into the navy through the professional entrance—Annapolis—and won his way upward from commission to commission. Mitchell rose from the ranks, in the army.

Theoretically army and navy officers draw no distinction between the original West Point or Annapolis product, and the former enlisted man who has earned his shoulder straps. Probably they don't intend to, but practically the former's "one of us," while the latter, at best, is no "old college chum" anyway. At worst, though, nobody will refer to him as an "upstart" it obviously is impossible to keep anybody who thinks so from thinking just that.

Magruder, too, can be called on—in fact, he has been, informally, and undoubtedly will be given an opportunity later—to prove his charges, and if he can't do it, he'll have to back water. Admiral Sims placed himself in a similar position a good many years ago. He made all kinds of fun of American naval marksmanship, Col. Roosevelt, who was at the helm then, promptly summoned him to improve it, and Sims, given the necessary authority, did improve it.

There's something tangible about complaints like Sims and Magruder's. They can be tested. If they don't stand the test, the navy chortles, of course. If they do, it has, even against the grain, to admit it.

Moreover, Magruder and Sims are navy men, criticizing the navy, on which they're experts, and doing it in parliamentary language.

Mitchell, on the other hand, an army officer, was especially severe in his strictures on the ocean fighting force, and he used such expressions as "criminal" which were interpreted as not only injurious but insulting.

The army personnel were sorer about it than the navy's, as an affront put, by one of their own number, on the sister service.

And Mitchell's claims—even a bystander can see it—can't be tried out with certainty. Under peace conditions, with a plane, he can sink unresisting, anchored ships, but nobody knows what he could do against a vessel which put up a fight, and a real experiment is impossible. It would be sure to kill somebody which wouldn't do—deliberately in mere maneuvers. Military folks hold overwhelmingly that the ship would win 99 times in 100.

So it's a mistake to compare the Mitchell and Magruder cases. Mitchell lost his scalp. There isn't a chance that Magruder will.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Parents Choice

Does a parent really do a girl a favor by choosing her men friends, beyond eliminating those of unsound morals? Sometimes parents have suffered financially and determined that their children shall never go through what they have. Therefore they encourage young men with money and discourage those who are "poor, but honest." Sometimes plain snobishness dictates their actions.

A young girl writes: "Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl of 17. I have several young men friends that I respect quite a bit, but this is my problem: My father and mother think they must choose my company. They choose those who belong to wealthy families. Really I do not care for this type of boys, for the largest per cent of them know nothing about work. I know several young men who work that I really like, but my parents will not permit me to hardly speak to them. Now, Mrs. Lee, I will admit I've been talking to them on the sly lately. I know I shouldn't, but I would not even think of such a thing if my parents would let me bring them to the home."

"Now, Mrs. Lee, I hope you won't misunderstand me, because I would much rather have someone to accompany me places that I like rather than someone I don't care anything for. SALLY."

If there is nothing against these young men, but the fact that they work, Sally, I cannot understand your parents' attitude. Possibly they were poor and hope that their daughter will marry some one with money so she need not suffer what they did. Is that the reason, do you suppose? They should realize my dear.

that even millionaires' sons work these days, and that a man who does not know how is not likely to make a very desirable son-in-law. I wouldn't meet them on the sly, my dear. You can show by your attitude when you meet them public that you like them. In a very few years you will be a wife and may choose your own friends. The girl friend problem is troubling the next writer:

"My Dear Mrs. Lee: I became quite friendly with a girl about a month ago, and thought that my wish for a best girl friend had been answered. However, I am now afraid that my hopes have gone up in smoke, for this girl has seemed to grow cold, never calls at my house or in my own accord any more, and in many ways has almost shown that she has not the same interest in me.

"I tried to be nice to her. We went to the theatre together quite often, and my parents liked her and she often told me that her parents were fond of her.

"What would you advise me to do, Mrs. Lee? Shall I ask her if she wishes to discontinue the friendship? Shall I try to find out how I have offended her? Or shall I just wait and see how the affair comes out?"

"Will you please criticize my note paper and penmanship? I shall be most thankful to you. TROUBLED FRIEND."

Possibly your girl friend imagines you have slighted her by writing them, but that she has clear things up. If she has just lost interest or gotten another friend, there is nothing you can do but get another friend for yourself. Your note paper and handwriting are above reproach, my dear.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDA H. MCGLONE GIBSON HARMONY

Sometimes when I sit down to write, my heart is full of prayer of thankfulness, is "Thank God, I belong to the great middle class of the common people who live more or less commonplace lives, for it is that class which gets the most out of life. It is that class, I believe, that is happiest. It is that class which does the world's work."

It is the class that knows enough when it is well off and also knows enough when it is poor. It is the common man or woman has ever been otherwise than unhappy since the world began.

You remember that oft-quoted remark of Lincoln's, "God must love the common people, because he made so many of them." I take it from these words of a great martyred president, that Providence takes a special interest in us who belong to the great middle class.

The great menace today is that, while most of us are of a common or garden variety, yet we are all ways striving to masquerade as something which has been forced in the hothouse of genius or wealth or personality or temperament. We are always hugging to ourselves that egotistical prayer of the Pharisee, when we take and stopped to think we would know we were just like the other fellow.

We all want to stand out—to mix the metaphor a little—we want solo parts. We never stop to think whether we are capable of sustaining them, but when we do not receive them we bring all sorts of discord into the chorus where we might add a note of melody.

We are like the old Greek who, having broken one string of his "admirable lyre," replaced it with a new chord and ever after his instrument was out of tune all sorts of discord into the chorus where we might add a note of melody.

It is the common people who live commonplace lives who keep the glad song "ringing down the corridors of time."

The work of the world is done by the average man and woman acting in harmony with themselves and their surroundings.

Memo: Harmony brings great content into the world than anything else.

POULTRY SHOW WILL FEATURE FALL FAIR AT BEAVER SCHOOL

Beaver Creek Twp. will have a poultry judging contest in connection with its annual fall fair. The contest will be held in the Beaver High School barn at 10 o'clock Friday morning, October 14.

Contestants will be divided into two classes, one for adults and one for school pupils. Any adult who is a resident of Beaver Creek Twp. may enter in the adult class. The school class will include any students of the school who wish to enter.

No entry fee will be charged for entering the contest. The judging is to be done on the basis of egg production and the disqualifications as stated in the "Standard of Perfection" will not be considered as sufficient evidence to place the bird at the bottom of the class. The birds will be placed on their merits as egg layers and not on their merits as to color markings. Birds will be in coops, four birds in each class. The following classes are to be judged by each contestant:

White Leghorn hens.
White Leghorn pullets.
White Wyandotte hens.
White Wyandotte pullets.

Still Going Good

DeHart Hubbard, colored star athlete, is still in the running—or, rather, jumping. Hubbard has just set a new world's record in the running broad jump by sailing 26 feet 2 1/4 inches, breaking his own mark.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Jack Dempsey will be the magnet at the next real big heavyweight battle Tex Rickard stages.

This can be accepted as a fact. Rickard's statement since the recent battle of the long count coupled with remarks he made to me before the fight indicated clearly the trend of his mind. Rickard had the recently checked comeback campaign of Dempsey mapped out a year in advance. He has the next bout in mind right now.

Rickard, discussing Dempsey and Tunney before the recent Chicago battle, was duly appreciative of Tunney's value as a champion, but he went further in discussing Dempsey.

"Jack Dempsey is the most popular fighter the game has ever known or ever will know," said Rickard. "He has the punch. He has the personality. He has the fighting instinct that the public likes. It wasn't the champion the fans crowded around when Jack was king. It was Dempsey, the man who had beaten Willard down and had given them what they wanted, a fighting tiger of a champion. Dempsey has done nothing but made friends since then. He has been more popular as an ex-champion than as champion. I can't explain it. He's a public institution right now. It doesn't matter whom you put in the ring against him. The public wants to see Jack in action."

The greeting given Dempsey when he entered the ring and the cries of "you're still champion" after the fight verify Rickard's statements.

Now, since the Tunney fight, Tex has made the prophetic statement that "as long as Dempsey can fight the way he does he will make a good opponent for any man."

Both Jack Sharkey and Paulino Uzcudun, the Spaniard, were introduced from the ring at Chicago the other night. Small town stuff unless there was an ulterior motive in keeping these two drawing cards before the public.

Dempsey has whipped Sharkey once. Paulino is a rugged fighter but more of a slugger than Sharkey—more of Dempsey's type. A knock-out victory over the Spaniard in a crushing, gruelling battle which would give Dempsey a chance to cut his man down in the old accustomed style would give Rickard the background needed for another big mill.

The plan of procedure is mere speculation. But there is little left for imagination in the views expressed by Rickard. Watch the cards.

Dick Hanley, serving his novitiate as coach of the much sung Northwestern eleven, and Tad Weiman, newly crowned coach at the University of Michigan, have one problem in common—and may take the same road in working it out.

Benny Friedman, wonder quarterback of Michigan and one of the all-Americans to step out last fall, did practically all the passing for the Wolverine squad. Benny Oosterbaan, now captain, was on the receiving end.

Now, according to close followers of the doing of the Michigan squad, Weiman is coaching the lad with the double-barreled vowels to leave the passes. Passing is not entirely new to Captain Benny II, of course, but he never had a steady diet of passing.

At Northwestern, Ralph Baker did all the heaving the last two years at least. The "Grange of Evanston" has departed, of course. Now Hanley has let it be known that he will depend upon Gustafson, new skipper of the team, to hurl at least some of the passes in the offensive being laid out. Gustafson carried his energies last year on running with the ball.

HOME ELEVEN MEETS PARKER HIGH TEAM

O. S. and S. O. Home football eleven was scheduled to meet the strong Parker High School team at McKinley Park in Dayton Friday afternoon. The game was called at 3 p. m.

Coached by R. F. Insley, former Wittenberg College football player, the Home team has lost one game and tied another in two played this season.

The Home and East High School Xenia, played to a 19-19 tie in the opening game. Wilmington High defeated the Home last week.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP TO ART INSTITUTE

Scholarship to the Dayton Art Institute, awarded by the Dayton Press Club to the child of a member of the editorial or art departments of the three Dayton newspapers, was won by John A. He is a pupil of Van Cleave School. Winners of grade schools in Dayton and high elementary schools of the city were also announced Friday.

The pupils thus chosen will begin their art studies Saturday morning at the Dayton Art Institute.

BOWLING

Brown's Furniture Co. won its eighth game in nine played in the City League by easily making a clean sweep of its three-game match with the Red Wing Co. team Thursday night.

An orchestra selection and business meeting will close the morning program.

The meeting will open at 1:30 p. m., with a number by a saxophone quartet, "The O. T. E. C. for 1927-28" will be the subject of W. S. Coy, Columbus. A marimba xylophone solo will be given by Emerson Palmer. Dr. McMillan's address will follow.

REHEARSALS START FOR "ALL ABOARD"

Rehearsals for the musical comedy, "All Aboard" to be given by the Order of Eastern Star, October 19 and 20 at City Hall Theater, started in earnest Thursday night, at the Masonic Temple. Miss Taylor of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., was in charge of the rehearsal. All the participants were enthusiastic at the conclusion of the rehearsal.

Due to the fact that "All Aboard" is using so many groups, and so many participants in each group, the Eastern Star invites any talent that would like to be in the chorus work to report at the Masonic Temple at 5 o'clock Friday evening.

HIGHWAY DIRECTOR FAVORS CROSSING ELIMINATION PLAN

State Highway Director G. F. Schlesinger is still anxious to hold a hearing on the necessity and expediency of eliminating the grade crossing on the Jamestown Pike with the Pennsylvania Railroad, near the eastern limits of Xenia, where four deaths occurred as the result of an accident several weeks ago, it is learned.

Co-operation of Greene County Commissioners is needed in this project, it is said.

Director Schlesinger recently made a trip to Xenia and personally inspected the grade crossing, expressing the opinion its elimination could be brought about at a minimum cost of $50,000. Half of the expense would be shared equally by the state highway department and Greene County, while the railroad would be required to pay the balance.

It is understood that Schlesinger suggested a new road bed should be cut for the Jasper Pike, so that the road would parallel the railroad east for about one-fourth of a mile to a place where it would join the Jamestown Pike at a point where elimination of the crossing is contemplated. Thus two purposes would be served as two crossings would be abolished, for the cost of eliminating one.

Data prepared by the state bureau of vital statistics, indicated Greene County's death rate at railroad and interurban crossings in 1926 was unusually high and a third greater than that average for the eighty-eight counties in Ohio.

It is learned that 159 deaths occurred in Ohio at railroad crossings in 1926 while seventy-one fatalities resulted at interurban crossings. Nine deaths were reported in Greene County, as compared with the state average of three per county, the bureau stated.

TAX DISTRICTS MUST SLICE BUDGETS TO KEEP WITHIN LIMIT

Faced with the necessity of making a reduction of 2.80 mills to keep their total 1928 budget requests within the 15 mill limitation, set by law, members of the City Commission, City Board of Education and County Commissioners will meet for a joint conference with the County Budget Commission next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Budget requests of the city, township, library county and city school board for next year, within the 15 mill limitation, submitted to County Auditor R. O. Wead for consideration by the Budget Commission, aggregate 17.80 mills, which is 2.80 mills in excess of the maximum allowed under the law.

No reduction can be made in the one-tenth of a mill allowed the township for general operating expenses while the district library appropriation of two-tenths of a mill also must remain the same.

The budget reductions must consequently be made from the city, county or city school board requests. The joint conference is for the purpose of discussing ways and means as to how the slice of 2.80 mills can be best distributed.

Chest Colds Need Direct Treatment

IT IS an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct, double action of Vicks. Rubbed on the chest, it acts two ways at once:

- (1) Direct to air passages with its healing vapors released by body heat;
- (2) Like a poultice, it "draws out" the soreness.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of St. Joseph, Mo. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their housework easily, happy homes are the result.

"Pink Tea" Inhibition Declared Handicap to Women Workers

By ROSE SCHNEIDERMAN
President of the Women's Trade Union League

(Rose Schneiderman received her schooling in New York and went to work at an early age in one of the department stores. Her trade union experience began in 1903, when, as a capmaker, she helped organize a branch of the hat and capmakers. Since that time she has devoted most of her time to trade union movements and has been president of the Women's Trade Union League since 1917.)

Factory women—sturdy, hard-working types of femininity that they represent—suffer paradoxically from a "pink tea" inhibition that is the greatest handicap woman's labor organization meets today.

The four-square type of woman worker who is up at dawn to get her family's breakfast, is at the factory door at 7, and hurries home at the close of day to cook another meal and bend over the family wash-tub—whose lot is rough, vigorous and hard, still believes in the majority of instances that it is not "quite nice nor ladylike" to join a union and strike the boss if necessary for higher wages and shorter hours.

They think that if they go out and join a union they are announcing to the world that they work in a factory. Strange as it seems, many women do not wish to disclose that fact. It is all right and refined if they go to business, but if they work in a factory it is not really ladylike and something to keep from the world.

It is not the settled married woman worker who is the most interested in union activities. It is the younger woman worker, although she be at the age when affairs of the heart are distracting. She is the one who wants shorter working hours so that she can be fresh for gaiety and recreation in the evening. Clothes are a life matter to her, and she wants more money to purchase them.

In time the married woman worker will not try to keep up with two jobs. At present home replaces the affairs of the heart.

The married woman worker now goes home from work to a clean shirt and dinner. The married woman worker goes home to wash the shirt and cook the dinner. When woman labor gets into the skilled class, when higher wages and shorter hours are brought about, women will work at their jobs and pay some one else to do their home work.

And that will be brought about when women forget their "pink tea" inhibitions.

REFLECTORS SHOW CITY'S NAME ON NEW XENIA LIMIT SIGNS

Two reflectors, illuminating the word "Xenia" on the city limits signs, were installed by the Greene County Automobile Club at the corner of the city on the Springfield Pike and the Dayton Pike Thursday afternoon.

The reflectors were purchased from the American Gas Accumulator Co., Elizabeth, N. J., through Robert Kelly, this city, agent for this territory.

As a result, Xenia has the unique distinction among all cities of the United States, of being the first to make use of reflectors on city limits signs.

City Commissioners will be invited to inspect the reflectors. Auto club officials may install similar devices at the corner of the line of every main road leading into Xenia, including the Cincinnati Pike, Wilmington Pike, Jamestown Pike and Columbus Pike.

The letters composing the word "Xenia" are illuminated at night by the headlights of automobiles. The glow is discernible at a distance as great as 300 yards but the letters do not begin to take actual shape until the motorist is about 100 feet away, when they are easily distinguished.

It is the latest device for advertising a city. Letters are composed of Stinsonite glass, which reflects the light to its source. Mounted on state highway city limits signs, the letters are four inches in height, although the New Jersey firm has another standard size of six inches. The state highway department has adopted eight different types of reflectors, manufactured by the Elizabeth company, for use on state routes.

Although installed more or less as an experiment Thursday, the new reflectors have already drawn much favorable comment from motorists. It is said.

Xenia is the first city in which the reflectors have been introduced. Autostars have the added opportunity to find out the exact location of the city limits.

DAYTON DETECTIVES ARREST WRIGHT FIELD PLANE THIEVES

Four persons are in the custody of federal authorities in connection with the theft of accessories from planes at Wilbur Wright field during the last four months. Dayton detectives arrested the quartet Tuesday and Wednesday.

Pete Hutchinson, 26, 3226 E. Third St., Dayton, was released Thursday under bond of $1,000. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned on the charge and will be given a hearing next Wednesday before U. S. Commissioner William A. Rogers.

Miller Welty, 29, R. R. 3, New Carlisle, Clarence E. Blankenship, 23, New Carlisle, and Robert Thompson, 30, 824 Highland Ave., Dayton, will be questioned in connection with the theft of the articles.

Hutchinson admits taking the articles, all of which were recovered.

ADVANTAGE OF WORK FOR CHILDREN TOLD BY SCHOOL TEACHER

"The work of the P. T. A. in helping to take care of the underprivileged children in Xenia has been of benefit to pupils and teachers. During the year 1926-1927, 680 lunches were provided for Spring Hill pupils," said Miss Eleanor Alexander, principal of Spring Hill School, who issued a statement Friday, urging public support of the P. T. A. drive next Tuesday for funds for this purpose.

"Pupils who have been given better food and warmer clothing have shown a marked improvement in their school work, as they are better able to attend, are more alert and more receptive," Miss Alexander said.

"Before the children received the help from the P. T. A. children were often absent from school because they lacked the necessary clothing and nourishing food, but now with the help of the P. T. A. their deficiency has been overcome and pupils have a better chance to keep up with their class and not become disheartened by failure."

"The work of the P. T. A. is a valuable asset in the training of boys and girls to be better citizens."

at a Dayton express office. Authorities say the articles they recovered are worth nearly $2,000. Hutchinson says that he obtained about $70 for the articles he took from the field.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN STARTED BY CLUB; VISITING SCHOOL

Education of school children is the object of the annual safety campaign being conducted by the Greene County Auto Club. The drive began October 1.

Auto club officials visited three schools Thursday and expected to visit three more buildings Friday. It is planned to carry the campaign to every school building in Xenia and Greene County.

Various safety slogans are put up in conspicuous places in every building and a set of lessons in safety is being taught pupils of the first, second and third grades. The lessons may be continued in the three lower grades throughout six months of the school year. The study in safety methods is being given along with regular classroom work.

"Safety" calendars have also been furnished by the club to the first, second and third grades of schools over the county.

HIGHWAY DIRECTOR FAVORS CROSSING ELIMINATION PLAN

State Highway Director G. F. Schlesinger is still anxious to hold a hearing on the necessity and expediency of eliminating the grade crossing on the Jamestown Pike with the Pennsylvania Railroad, near the eastern limits of Xenia, where four deaths occurred as the result of an accident several weeks ago, it is learned.

Co-operation of Greene County Commissioners is needed in this project, it is said.

Director Schlesinger recently made a trip to Xenia and personally inspected the grade crossing, expressing the opinion its elimination could be brought about at a minimum cost of $50,000. Half of the expense would be shared equally by the state highway department and Greene County, while the railroad would be required to pay the balance.

It is understood that Schlesinger suggested a new road bed should be cut for the Jasper Pike, so that the road would parallel the rail road east for about one-fourth of a mile to a place where it would join the Jamestown Pike at a point where elimination of the crossing is contemplated. Thus two purposes would be served as two crossings would be abolished, for the cost of eliminating one.

Data prepared by the state bureau of vital statistics, indicated Greene County's death rate at railroad and interurban crossings in 1926 was unusually high and a third greater than the average for the eighty-eight counties in Ohio. It is learned that 189 deaths occurred in Ohio at railroad crossings in 1926 while seventy-one fatalities resulted at interurban crossings. Nine deaths were reported in Greene County, as compared with the state average of three per county, the bureau stated.

TAX DISTRICTS MUST SLICE BUDGETS TO KEEP WITHIN LIMIT

Faced with the necessity of making a reduction of 2.80 mills to keep their total 1928 budget requests within the 15 mill limitation, set by law, members of the City Commission, City Board of Education and County Commissioners will meet for a joint conference with the County Budget Commission next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Budget requests of the city, township, library county and city school board for next year, within the 15 mill limitation, submitted to County Auditor R. O. Wood for consideration by the Budget Commission, aggregate 17.80 mills, which is 2.80 mills in excess of the maximum allowed under the law.

No reduction can be made in the one-tenth of a mill allowed the township for general operating expenses while the district library appropriation of two-tenths of a mill also must remain the same.

The budget reductions must consequently be made from the city, county or city school board requests. The joint conference is for the purpose of discussing ways and means as to how the slice of 2.80 mills can be best distributed.

Chest Colds Need Direct Treatment

IT IS an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct, double action of Vicks. Rubbed on the chest, it acts two ways at once:

- (1) Direct to air passages with its healing vapors released by body heat;
- (2) Like a poultice, it "draws out" the soreness.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of St. Joseph, Ill., who declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their household easily, happy homes are the result.

"Pink Tea" Inhibition Declared Handicap to Women Workers By ROSE SCHNEIDERMAN, President of the Women's Trade Union League

(Rose Schneiderman received her schooling in New York and went to work at an early age in one of the department stores. Her trade union experience began in 1903, when, as a capmaker, she helped organize a branch of the hat and capmakers. Since that time she has devoted most of her time to trade union movements and has been president of the Women's Trade Union League since 1917.)

Factory women—sturdy, hard-working types of femininity that represent—suffer paradoxically from a "pink tea" inhibition that is the greatest handicap woman's labor organization meets today.

The four-square type of woman worker who is up at dawn to get her family's breakfast, is at the factory door at 7, and hurries home at the close of day to cook another meal and bend over the family wash-tub—whose lot is rough, vigorous and hard, still believes in the majority of instances that it is not "quite nice nor ladylike" to join a union and strike the boss if necessary for higher wages and shorter hours.

They think that if they go out and join a union they are announcing to the world that they work in a factory. Strange as it seems, many women do not wish to disclose that fact. It is all right and refined if they go to business, but if they work in a factory it is not really ladylike and something to keep from the world.

It is not the settled married woman worker who is the most interested in union activities. It is the younger woman worker, although she be at the age when affairs of the heart are distracting. She is the one who wants shorter working hours so that she can be fresh for zesty and recreation in the evening. Clothes are a life matter to her, and she wants more money to purchase them.

In time the married woman worker will not try to keep up with two jobs. At present home replaces the affairs of the heart.

The married man worker now goes home from work to a clean shirt and dinner. The married woman worker goes home to wash the shirt and cook the dinner. When woman labor gets into the skilled class, when higher wages and shorter hours are brought about, women will work at their jobs and pay some one else to do their home work.

And that will be brought about when women forget their "pink tea" inhibitions.

INFANT ATTACKED BY SWARMING BEES

Although his body is covered with more than seventy welts, inflicted when he was attacked by bees when he wandered into the orchard apary on the farm of his grandfather, the two and one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Simson, residing between Cedarville and Xenia, is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Simson and their small son were visiting at the home of Mrs. Simson's father, Hiram Rogers, Federal Pike, near Jamestown, Wednesday. The child wandered into the orchard and in a short time his body was covered with the fighting bees.

His screams attracted his mother, who attempted to fight off the bees. When she was stung more than thirty times, she was forced to abandon saving the child who was drenched with water by his grandmother.

REFLECTORS SHOW CITY'S NAME ON NEW XENIA LIMIT SIGNS

Two reflectors, illuminating the word "Xenia" on the city limits signs, were installed by the Greene County Automobile Club at the corporation lines of the city on the Springfield Pike and the Dayton Pike Thursday afternoon.

The reflectors were purchased from the American Gas Accumulator Co., Elizabeth, N. J., through Robert Kelly, this city, agent for this territory.

As a result, Xenia has the unique distinction among all cities of the United States, of being the first to make use of reflectors on city limits signs.

City Commissioners will be invited to inspect the reflectors. Auto club officials may install similar devices at the corporation line of every main road leading into Xenia, including the Cincinnati Pike, Wilmington Pike, Jamestown Pike and Columbus Pike.

The letters composing the word "Xenia" are illuminated at night by the headlights of automobiles. The glow is discernible at a distance as great as 200 yards but the letters do not begin to take actual shape until the motorist is about 100 feet away, when they are easily distinguished.

It is the latest device for advertising a city. Letters are composed of Stinsonite glass, which reflects the light to its source. Mounted on state highway city limits signs, the letters are four inches in height, although the New Jersey firm has another standard size of six inches. The state highway department has adopted eight different types of reflectors, manufactured by the Elizabeth company, for use on state routes.

Although installed more or less as an experiment Thursday, the new reflectors have already drawn much favorable comment from motorists. It is said.

Xenia is the first city in which the reflectors have been introduced.

Autosts have the added opportunity to find out the exact location of the city limits.

Twenty Years '07 - Ago - '27

Xenia is being considered as a site for a new state home for crippled children, for which the last legislature appropriated $50,000 to purchase a location.

A convention for the purpose of nominating a Democratic municipal ticket will be held at the Court House this week.

Mr. Moses Walton, rural mail carrier on route No. 4 out of Xenia, is enjoying his vacation.

Mr. William Littlejohn went to Cincinnati for the purpose of moving his family to Xenia. B. F. Thomas arrived home from the Mt. Carmel Hospital, at Columbus.

CARRIER PIGEON FOUND NEAR ALPHA

A carrier pigeon, thought to have become exhausted after a long flight, was found by A. J. Shank, near Alpha, in his barn, Friday afternoon.

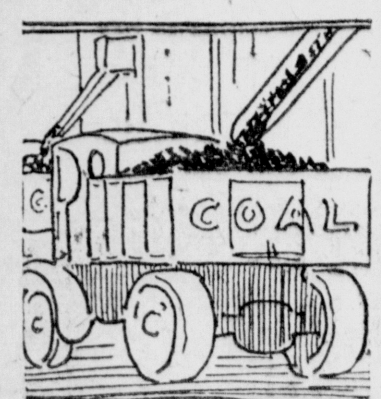

Two bands were on the bird's legs, one of rubber, bearing the lettering 376L and a metal band with the numbers 321, A.J. 27 and G.H.C. The Shank family fed and cared for the bird and released it when it was able to fly.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN STARTED BY CLUB; VISITING SCHOOL

Education of school children is the object of the annual safety campaign being conducted by the Greene County Auto Club. The drive began October 1.

Auto club officials visited three schools Thursday and expected to visit three more buildings Friday. It is planned to carry the campaign to every school building in Xenia and Greene County.

Various safety slogans are put up in conspicuous places in every building and a set of lessons in safety is being taught pupils of the first, second and third grades. The lessons may be continued in the three lower grades throughout six months of the school year. The study in safety methods is being given along with regular classroom work.

"Safety" calendars have also been furnished by the club to the first, second and third grades of schools over the county.

THE LADY CALLED FATE

BY JOSEPHINE K. LITTLE-JOHN

© 1927 CENTRAL PRESS ASS.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle, and all go to the ranch, where John meets Manuel Lopez, Rodriguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He learns that Morton's business with these men had to do with the secret importation of arms into Mexico.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

"Watch!" thought John Moore in the shadows. "Why, he did not lend me any watch. What the devil! That is an excuse to get into my room. He's walking down there now."

He heard Clench rap on the door. This, John remembered, stood open, right by the bed.

Clench's voice again. "That's all right, Mr. Moore. I just came for my watch—Thanks. I can find it easy enough on the bureau—"

"By Jove!" puzzled John. "He sounds as if he was talking to me and I was answering him. He's in my room. No, he's out again."

Clench was saying, "Goodnight, sir."

John heard him walk down the long porch and halt midway for an instant to call, "I got it all right. Buena noches."

"Well, I'll be damned," exclaimed John Moore. He stood straining his ears to hear more.

But there was no more to hear. The silence of the night closed over the waters Clench had spoken as the words of a pool close over the stone thrown into them. The silence deepened and spread; sinking from terrace to terrace, circling but beneath the shadows of the trees.

"If a girl is born with the acting genius flaming within her, it takes only the shortest technical training to make her effective in great roles." This is the statement of Anita Loos, author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which is now being filmed.

Rod La Rocque and Leatrice Joy are to be co-starred in a special titled "The Blue Danube."

l ranks," Miss Loos says. "I agree with Max Reinhardt, when he said our greatest geniuses on the American stage often were in low comedy and down in the line of unknowns waiting for a job. It is all a mystery to think that before a person is fit for an important role, it is necessary to spend years of apprenticeship in minor bits. Ruth since Bush benched Cuyler two months ago for failing to slide to second.

YANKEES HOPING TO WIN FOUR STRAIGHT FROM PIRATE CREW

The defeat of Vic Aldridge was a body blow to the Pirates, as he was regarded as a great "money pitcher." The Yanks took great liberties with his offerings. Babe Ruth was about the only man on the team who didn't hit him. Ruth went hitless, and rather disappointed the Pittsburgh fans who had expected he would hit at least one home run. The greatest kick they got out of Ruth was when he swung mightily and missed a third strike in the first inning and fell down when he had a chance to hit in the eighth with the bases loaded. The best the great man could do was to tap to the infield.

George Piggas' pitching was one of the highlights of the series. The sturdy Minnesota right-hander baffled the Pirates with his fast ball which had a sharp jump to it. The Pirates were knocking flies all afternoon. The whole New York club had only five assists which must be a record of some kind. Piggas is a coming star. He compiled a record of thirteen victories and three defeats during the regular season and won four straight in September. He is at his best when under fire, and if the series goes a few games more will be heard from again.

Ten special trains pulled into the Pennsylvania station this morning with baseball players, sports writers and fans. One special carried the Pirates, another the Yankees and a third newspaper men while seven others carried fans. The number of passengers was estimated at 2,000. Seventy extra sleeping cars were provided.
